Item 1.01. Entry into Material Definitive Agreement.

The Company previously disclosed that on April 27, 2016, it and the other defendants (the “Securities Class Action Defendants”) had entered into a Memorandum of Understanding (the “Securities Class Action MOU”) with the lead plaintiffs to memorialize an agreement in principle to settle the consolidated securities class action captioned In re Lumber Liquidators Holdings, Inc. Securities Litigation (the “Securities Class Action Litigation”). The Company also previously announced that on May 17, 2016, the Company and the defendants (collectively, the “Derivative Defendants”) entered into a Memorandum of Understanding dated as of May 16, 2016 (the “Derivative MOU”) with the plaintiff’s representatives to memorialize an agreement in principle to settle the derivative litigation matter captioned In re Lumber Liquidators Holdings, Inc. Shareholder Derivative Litigation (the “Derivative Litigation Matter”).

On June 15, 2016, the Company entered into a definitive settlement agreement with the Securities Class Action Defendants consistent with the terms of the Securities Class Action MOU (the “Securities Class Action Stipulation”), and the court preliminarily approved the Securities Class Action Stipulation on July 7, 2016, subject to further consideration at a settlement hearing scheduled to be held on November 17, 2016.

Under the terms of the Securities Class Action Stipulation, the Company will contribute $26.0 million to a settlement fund (the “Securities Class Action Fund”) that will be used to compensate individuals who purchased the Company’s shares during the period from February 22, 2012 to February 27, 2015. In addition, under the terms of the Securities Class Action Stipulation, the Company will issue 1 million shares of its common stock to the Securities Class Action Fund with a value of approximately $16.0 million based on the $16.02 closing price of the Company’s common stock on April 27, 2016.

The Derivative MOU provides for the Company’s insurance carriers to pay $26.0 million to the Company and for the Company to contribute all of these insurance proceeds into the Securities Class Action Fund. The Derivative Defendants will agree that the Company will not use any cash, other than these insurance proceeds, to resolve the Securities Class Action Litigation. The Company will pay the lead plaintiffs in the Derivative Litigation Matter legal fees of $5.0 million and expects to fund half of this amount from insurance proceeds. The Derivative MOU also provides for a process by which the Company will add a new member to the Board of Directors for one term and for the Company to make certain corporate governance changes such as, among other things, the adoption of a modified plurality voting policy for directors, stock holding guidelines, a clawback policy and a policy on lobbying and political contributions, and the creation of a regulatory affairs committee of the Board.

The Company previously disclosed in its Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the period ended March 31, 2016 (the “Form 10-Q”) that it had determined a probable loss had been incurred relating to the Securities Class Action Litigation and recognized a net charge to earnings of approximately $16.0 million within selling general and administrative expense in the first quarter of 2016. This expense was comprised of the loss contingency of approximately $42.0 million ($26.0 million cash and $16.0 common stock), net of expected insurance proceeds of approximately $26.0 million. The amount of loss associated with an issuance of shares of common stock will be determined based on the trading value of the shares on the date of issuance, which could increase the recognized loss if the trading value increases or result in a gain if the trading value decreases. While it is reasonably possible that the Company may incur a loss greater than the recognized amounts, the Company is unable to determine a range of possible losses greater than the amount recognized.

The Company also disclosed in the Form 10-Q that it had recorded $2.5 million ($5.0 million minus $2.5 million of expected insurance proceeds) in connection with the Derivative Litigation Matter within other current liabilities and selling, general and administrative expenses in the first quarter of 2016. The Company does not expect to record an additional loss relating to the Derivative Litigation Matter.

Both the Securities Class Action Stipulation and the Derivative MOU are dependent on each other and are subject court approvals and other contingencies. The Derivative MOU also remains subject to the execution of a definitive settlement agreement. Therefore, there can be no assurance that a settlement will be finalized by the parties and approved by the courts or as to the ultimate outcome of the Securities Class Action Litigation or the Derivative Litigation Matter.

The above description of the Securities Class Action Stipulation is not complete and is qualified in its entirety by the terms thereof, a copy of which is filed as Exhibit 10.1 hereto and incorporated herein by reference.
