Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement

As previously disclosed, on February 24, 2009, Noble International, Ltd. (the Company) entered into a forbearance agreement (the Forbearance Agreement) with Comerica Bank (Comerica), as agent for itself and the other lenders (collectively, the Lenders) under the Company's U.S. and Canadian credit facility (the Credit Facility). Under the Forbearance Agreement, the Lenders agreed to refrain from exercising remedies under the Credit Facility until March 23, 2009, subject to earlier termination. Concurrently with the signing of the Forbearance Agreement, the Company entered into a memorandum of understanding (the MOU) with General Motors Corporation, Ford Motor Company, Chrysler, LLC (collectively, the Customers) and the Lenders. In the MOU, the Customers agreed to provide certain short-term financing through the purchase of subordinated participations in the Credit Facility, among other things.

On March 6, 2009, following a default under the Revolving and Term Credit Agreement dated as of July 31, 2006 (the Mexican Credit Agreement), which is guaranteed by the Company, the parties to that agreement entered into a forbearance agreement (the Mexican Forbearance Agreement). The Mexican Forbearance Agreement, like the Forbearance Agreement, expires on March 23, 2009, subject to earlier termination.

On March 17, 2009, the Customers provided $2 million to the Company pursuant to the terms of the MOU in exchange for the purchase of subordinated participations in the Credit Facility.

On March 18, 2009, the Company entered into first amendments to the Forbearance Agreement (the Forbearance Agreement Amendment) and the Mexican Forbearance Agreement with the parties to those agreements. Pursuant to the terms of the Forbearance Agreement Amendment, Comerica has agreed to provide approximately $2 million to the Company on March 19, 2009 under the terms of the Credit Facility. Under the amendments the Lenders also agreed to maintain the Forbearance Agreement and the Mexican Forbearance Agreement through March 23, 2009. Early termination of the forbearance agreements may occur if there are new defaults under the Credit Facility or Mexican Loan Agreement or defaults under the forbearance agreements and the amendments thereto, if there is further deterioration in the financial condition of the Company or further deterioration in the Lenders' collateral position, or if the Lenders believe that the prospect of payment or performance is impaired.

The Company believes that the funding from the Customers and Comerica will provide the Company with credit sufficient to meet its ongoing and routine obligations to March 23, 2009, but this is not assured. The Company remains in discussions with Comerica and the Customers to identify funding solutions for its liquidity needs beyond March 23, 2009. The Company is also continuing to analyze and consider strategic alternatives.
