Item 1.01                      Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On March 2, 2015, Boston Scientific Corporation announced the execution of a definitive purchase agreement with wholly owned subsidiaries of Endo International plc under which Boston Scientific will acquire the American Medical Systems urology portfolio, which includes the Men's Health and Prostate Health businesses. The purchase price is $1.6 billion, payable in cash at closing. In addition, $50 million may be payable in 2017 depending on the performance of the acquired business during calendar year 2016. The purchase price payable at the closing is subject to customary net working capital and net indebtedness adjustments. The transaction is expected to close before the end of the third quarter of 2015, subject to receipt of applicable regulatory clearances and satisfaction of other customary conditions. Boston Scientific intends to finance the acquisition through a combination of existing and newly committed credit facilities.

The purchase agreement contemplates that subsidiaries of Boston Scientific and Endo International will each receive transitional services from the other for up to three years following the closing of the transaction and will each supply products to the other for a period of two years following the closing, in each case on customary terms and conditions for similar arrangements. In addition, each of the parties will grant to the other perpetual, royalty-free licenses to certain intellectual property as part of the separation of the women's pelvic health business being retained by Endo International from the businesses being acquired by Boston Scientific.
