PART I

ITEM 1. Business

Shopsmith, Inc., an Ohio corporation organized in 1972 (the Company), is engaged in the production and marketing of power woodworking tools designed primarily for the home workshop. The principal line of power tools marketed under the name Shopsmith, a registered trademark, dates back to 1946 and was purchased by the Company in 1972.

The line is built around the Shopsmith MARK V, a multi-purpose tool, and includes separate function special purpose tools that may be mounted on the MARK V or used independently. The Company distributes these tools directly to consumers through demonstration programs (at which sales representatives solicit orders), telephone sales solicitation, Internet and mail order. During the fiscal year ended March 31, 2001, Shopsmith branded products accounted for substantially all of the net sales of the Company. The Company manufactures a substantial majority of products sold (as measured by sales dollar volume).

Shopsmith MARK V, Special Purpose Tools and Major Accessories

The Shopsmith MARK V is a compact power woodworking tool which performs the functions of five separate tools: a table saw, a wood lathe, a disc sander, a horizontal boring machine, and a vertical drill press. The engineering of the MARK V is such that special purpose tools may be mounted on and powered by the MARK V. The special purpose tools, a jointer, a beltsander, a bandsaw, a planer, a scroll saw, and a strip sander, may also be operated as free standing tools with a stand and power system.

Other products include MARK V accessories such as a lathe duplicator, which allows a woodworker to duplicate original turnings and a dust collector that, when used with the appropriate fixtures for the MARK V and other Shopsmith products, provides for virtually dust- free woodworking.

The Company also offers a line of accessories to its power tool line. These accessories, only a few of which are manufactured by the Company, include casters, custom saw blades, and molding attachments. Shopsmith accessories are sold directly to the consumer through the same marketing channels used for the Shopsmith power tool line.

Seasonality and Working Capital

The Company's business is seasonal, with the rate of incoming orders being lowest during the summer months. Consequently, cash requirements are higher during this period of the fiscal year and the Company generally experiences a tightening of its liquidity position.

Raw Materials and Components

The principal components and materials used by the Company in the production of its products include aluminum die-castings, iron sand castings, metal stampings, screw machine products, plastics and electric motors. The Company relies on sole sources of supply for some of its components and materials. To reduce costs, the Company uses foreign producers as sources for some parts and products.

Competition

The power woodworking equipment business is highly competitive and the MARK V and the Company's other products must compete against the single purpose tools sold by Delta, Power Matic, Black and Decker, Sears and other domestic and foreign corporations.

The Company considers quality, customer service, method of marketing, price and value to be the principal bases of competition in the power woodworking equipment industry.

Research and Development

From time to time, the Company engages in limited research and development programs to develop new products, and to improve existing products and current operating methods. Research and development costs were not material in 2001, 2000, and 1999.

Employees

The total number of persons employed by the Company (both full and part time) as of June 1, 2001 was 103. The Company considers its employee relations to be satisfactory, and to date the Company has not experienced a work stoppage due to a labor dispute. The Company has no collective bargaining contracts.

Environmental Compliance

The Company believes that it materially complies with all statutory and administrative requirements related to the environment and pollution control. For a discussion of certain environmental related contingencies to which the Company is subject, reference is made to Note 11 to the Consolidated Financial Statements which are incorporated into this Report pursuant to Item 8 below.
