2. RISK FACTORS

2.1. Our success depends heavily on market conditions and prices for oil and gas.

Our success depends heavily upon our ability to market oil and gas production at favorable prices. In recent decades, there have been both periods of worldwide overproduction and underproduction of hydrocarbons and periods of increased and relaxed energy conservation efforts. As a result the world has experienced periods of excess supply of, and reduced demand for, crude oil on a worldwide basis and for natural gas on a domestic basis; these periods have been followed by periods of short supply of, and increased demand for, crude oil and, to a lesser extent, natural gas. The excess or short supply of oil and gas has placed pressures on prices and has resulted in dramatic price fluctuations.

We depend on market price trends to sell our production at a profit. We received historically high gas prices at the wellhead in northern California in the first 6 months of 2001, but in the summer of 2001 prices fell back to more customary levels. If lower prices continue, our profitability will be hurt.

2.2. Uncertainty of estimates of oil and gas reserves could be material.

The process of estimating oil and gas reserves is complex, requiring significant decisions and assumptions in the evaluation of available geological, geophysical, engineering and economic data for each reservoir. As a result, such estimates are inherently imprecise. Actual future production, oil and gas prices, revenues, taxes, development expenditures, operating expenses and quantities of recoverable oil and gas reserves may vary substantially from those estimated in reserve reports that we periodically obtain from independent reserve engineers.

Any significant variance in these assumptions could materially change the estimated quantities and present value of our reserves. In addition, our proved reserves may be subject to downward or upward revision based upon production history, results of future exploration and development, prevailing oil and gas prices and other factors, many of which are beyond our control. Actual production, revenues, taxes, development expenditures and operating expenses with respect to our reserves will likely vary from the estimates used, and such variances may be material.

2.3. Production of oil and gas depends on our ability to find or acquire additional reserves.

In general, the volume of production from oil and gas properties declines as reserves are depleted. Except to the extent that we acquire properties containing proved reserves or conduct successful development and exploitation activities, or both, our proved reserves will decline as reserves are produced. Our future oil and gas production is, therefore, highly dependent upon our ability to find or acquire additional reserves. The business of acquiring, enhancing or developing reserves is capital intensive. We require cash flow from operations as well as outside investments to fund our acquisition and development activities. If our cash flow from operations is reduced and external sources of capital become limited or unavailable, our ability to make the necessary capital investment to maintain or expand our asset base of oil and gas reserves would be impaired.

2.4. Oil and gas reserves are concentrated in California.

Substantially all of our oil and gas reserves are located in northern California. Any interruption in the production from these reserves could materially adversely affect our operations.

2.5. Oil and gas drilling and production activities are subject to numerous mechanical and environmental risks.

These risks include the risk that no commercially productive oil or gas reservoirs will be encountered, that operations may be curtailed, delayed or canceled, and that title problems, weather conditions, compliance with governmental requirements, mechanical difficulties or shortages or delays in the delivery of drilling rigs and other equipment may limit our ability to develop, produce or market our reserves. New wells we drill may not be productive and we may not recover all or any portion of our investment in the well. Drilling for oil and gas may involve unprofitable efforts, not only from dry wells but also from wells that are productive but do not produce sufficient net revenues to return a profit after drilling, operating and other costs. In addition, our properties may be susceptible to hydrocarbon drainage from production by other operators on adjacent properties.

Industry operating risks include the risks of fire, explosions, blow-outs, pipe failure, abnormally pressured formations and environmental hazards, such as oil spills, natural gas leaks, ruptures or discharges of toxic gases, the occurrence of any of which could result in substantial losses due to injury or loss of life, severe damage to or destruction of property, natural resources and equipment, pollution or other environmental damage, clean-up responsibilities, regulatory investigation and penalties and suspension of operations. In accordance with customary industry practice, we maintain insurance against these kinds of risks, but we cannot be sure that our level of insurance will cover all losses in the event of a drilling or production catastrophe. Insurance is not available for all operational risks, such as risks that we will drill a dry hole, fail in an attempt to complete a well or have problems maintaining production from existing wells.

Oil and gas activities can result in liability under federal, state, and local environmental regulations for activities involving, among other things, water pollution and hazardous waste transport, storage, and disposal. Such liability can attach not only to the operator of record of the well, but also to other parties that may be deemed to be current or prior operators or owners of the wells or the equipment involved.

2.6. Drilling is a speculative activity, because assessments of drilling prospects are inexact.

The successful acquisition of oil and gas properties depends on our ability to assess recoverable reserves, future oil and gas prices, operating costs, potential environmental and other liabilities and other factors. Exploratory drilling remains a speculative activity. Even when fully utilized and properly interpreted, seismic data and other advanced technologies only assist geoscientists in identifying subsurface structures and do not enable the interpreter to know whether hydrocarbons are in fact present.

Therefore, our assessments of drilling prospects are necessarily inexact and their accuracy inherently uncertain. In connection with such an assessment, we perform a review of the subject properties that we believe to be generally consistent with industry practices. Such a review, however, will not reveal all existing or potential problems, nor will it permit us to become sufficiently familiar with the properties to fully assess their deficiencies and capabilities. Inspections may not always be performed on every well, and structural and environmental problems are not necessarily observable even when an inspection is undertaken. In most cases, we are not entitled to contractual indemnification for pre-closing liabilities, including environmental liabilities, and we generally acquire interests in the properties on an "as is" basis with limited remedies for breaches of representations and warranties. In those circumstances in which we have contractual indemnification rights for pre-closing liabilities, we cannot be sure that the seller will be able to fulfill its contractual obligations. In addition, competition for producing oil and gas properties is intense and many of our competitors have financial and other resources, which are substantially greater than ours. Therefore, we cannot be sure that we will be able to acquire producing oil and gas properties which contain economically recoverable reserves or that it will make such acquisitions at acceptable prices.

2.7. We make substantial capital expenditures for our exploration and development projects.

We finance capital expenditures for exploration and development with cash flow from operations and sales of working interests to passive investors and oil industry participants. We will need additional financing in the future to fund our developmental and exploration activities.

Additional financing that may be required may not be available or continue to be available to us. If additional capital resources are not available to us, our developmental and other activities may be curtailed, which would harm our business, financial condition and results of operations.

2.8. If our production is not marketable, we will not profit.

The marketability of our natural gas production depends in part upon the availability, proximity and capacity of natural gas gathering systems, pipelines and processing facilities. Most of our natural gas is delivered through natural gas gathering systems and natural gas pipelines that we do not own. Federal, state and local regulation of oil and gas production and transportation, tax and energy policies, changes in supply and demand and general economic conditions all could adversely affect our ability to produce and market oil and gas. Any dramatic change in market factors could have a material, adverse effect on our financial condition and results in operations.

2.9. We may not be able to successfully compete with other companies.

The oil and gas industry is highly competitive in all its phases. Competition is particularly intense with respect to the acquisition of desirable producing properties, the acquisition of oil and gas prospects suitable for enhanced production efforts, and the hiring of experienced personnel. Our competitors in oil and gas acquisition, development, and production include the major oil companies in addition to numerous independent oil and gas companies, individual proprietors and drilling programs. Many of these competitors possess and employ financial and personnel resources substantially greater than those which are available to us and may be able to pay more for desirable producing properties and prospects and to define, evaluate, bid for, and purchase a greater number of producing properties and prospects than we can. Our financial or personnel resources to generate reserves in the future will be dependent on our ability to select and acquire suitable producing properties and prospects in competition with these companies.

2.10. Governmental regulations make production more difficult.

Domestic exploration for the production and sale of oil and gas are extensively regulated at both the federal and state levels. Legislation affecting the oil and gas industry is under constant review for amendment or expansion, frequently increasing the regulatory burden. Also, numerous departments and agencies, both federal and state, are authorized by statute to issue, and have issued, rules and regulations affecting the oil and gas industry which often are difficult and costly to comply with and which carry substantial penalties for noncompliance. State statutes and regulations require permits for drilling operations, drilling bonds, and reports concerning operations. Most states in which we will operate also have statutes and regulations governing conservation matters, including the unitization or pooling of properties and the establishment of maximum rates of production from wells. Many state statutes and regulations may limit the rate at which oil and gas could otherwise be produced from acquired properties. Some states have also enacted statutes proscribing ceiling prices for natural gas sold within their states. Our operations are also subject to numerous laws and regulations governing plugging and abandonment, the discharge of materials into the environment or otherwise relating to environmental protection. The heavy regulatory burden on the oil and gas industry increases its costs of doing business and consequently affects its profitability. We cannot be sure that a change in such laws, rules, regulations, or interpretations, will not harm our financial condition or operating results.

2.11. We do not anticipate the distribution of cash dividends on our common stock.

Our board of directors presently intends to retain all of our earnings for the expansion of our business. Any future decision of our directors to pay cash dividends will depend, among other factors, upon our earnings, financial position, and cash requirements.

2.12. Dependence on Key Personnel

The business of the company will depend on the continued services of our president and chief executive officer, F. Lynn Blystone. We have an employment agreement with Mr. Blystone which ends in August 2002, and is automatically renewable for two one-year periods after 2002. The loss of his services would be particularly detrimental to us because of his background and experience in the oil and gas industry. We carry key man life insurance of $500,000 on Mr. Blystone's life.

We also consider our chief financial officer, Thomas J. Cunningham, and the president of our Tri-Valley Oil and Gas subsidiary, Joseph R. Kandle, to be key employees whose loss would be detrimental to us because of their oil and gas industry experience. We do not have employment contracts with either Mr. Cunningham or Mr. Kandle. We carry key man life insurance of $1,000,000 on Mr. Kandle, and no key man insurance on Mr. Cunningham.

2.13. Shares issued in the Investment Agreement could dilute our stock price on future sale.

The sale of stock pursuant to the Investment Agreement may substantially dilute the interests of other security holders. The shares issuable to Swartz pursuant to the Investment Agreement will be issued at a discount to the average daily price of our common stock, which will dilute the shares of common stock then outstanding. Over the course of the Investment Agreement, the common stock may be further diluted every time we exercise a put option and sell shares.

The precise amount of dilution that the security holders may experience is uncertain because the number, size, and timing of the sales depends on a number of factors. We will consider the following factors in determining the size and amount of each sale:

- our assessment of general market and economic conditions;
 - our actual and projected revenues and expenses;
 - our short-term and long-term operating capital requirements;
 - the availability and cost of alternative sources of financing; and
- ◆ the trading price of our common stock and our expectations with respect to its future trading price.

Our description with respect to the number, size, and timing of each sale is also subject to a number of contractual limitations described in Section 4, The Investment Agreement, page 11.

2.14. The sale of large amounts of our common stock could reduce our stock price and encourage short sales.

When we sell shares to Swartz pursuant to the Investment Agreement, Swartz may hold our stock in their own portfolio, sell our stock in the open market, or place our stock through negotiated transactions with other investors. To the extent that Swartz sells those shares in the market, the number of our common shares in the market will increase and may cause the market price of our shares to decrease. If our share price decreases, we would need to issue more shares in order to put the maximum dollar amounts allowed under the Investment Agreement. This may encourage short sales, which could further reduce the price of our common stock.

2.15. Penny stock rules may make it more difficult to sell our stock.

The Securities Enforcement and Penny Stock Reform Act of 1990 requires additional disclosure relating to the market for penny stocks in connection with trades in any stock defined as a penny stock. The Commission has adopted regulations that generally define a penny stock to be any equity security that has a market price of less than $5.00 per share, subject to a few exceptions.

Our stock is subject to these regulations, which require the delivery, prior to any transaction involving a penny stock, of a disclosure schedule explaining the penny stock market and the risks associated with it. The existence of these rules may make it more difficult to sell Tri-Valley stock than for other, more established companies.

2.16. Investment Agreement with Swartz may not provide adequate financing.

The funds we receive from the purchase of stock by Swartz under the Investment Agreement may not provide sufficient funds for us to continue operations according to our business plan. If the funds from the Investment Agreement are insufficient, we may have to find additional capital, either in the form of loans or sale of more equity, to continue our business. If we do not receive the additional capital once we need it, we will have to scale back our operations and potentially cease active business operations until we can negotiate an alternative capital strategy.

2.17 We may use the proceeds of this offering in ways with which you may not agree.

Net proceeds to us from any sales to Swartz will be used for working capital and for general corporate purposes, including possible mergers or acquisitions. We have not yet identified any merger or acquisition candidates. We have not allocated any specific amount of our net proceeds for any particular purpose. Consequently, our management will have broad discretion with respect to the expenditure of the net proceeds of any sales to Swartz, including discretion to use the proceeds in ways with which you may not agree.

3. USE OF PROCEEDS

We will not receive any proceeds from the resale of our common stock pursuant to this offering. We will, however, receive proceeds from the sale of our common stock to Swartz pursuant to the Investment Agreement, and, if exercised, we will receive proceeds from the sale of shares to Swartz upon its exercise of the warrants. In theory and based on the terms of Investment Agreement, we may realize up to $16,210,000 in net proceeds. Net proceeds are determined after deducting all of the expenses associated with this offering (estimated to be $19,805). We intend to use the proceeds for working capital and other general corporate purposes including mergers/acquisitions. Section 4 describes the Investment Agreement.

4. THE INVESTMENT AGREEMENT

4.1. Summary

We signed an Investment Agreement with Swartz on September 13, 2001, which entitles us from time to time to issue and sell up to $15 million of our common stock to Swartz, subject to a formula based on our stock price and trading volume, from time to time over a three year period beginning on the date this registration is declared effective. For each common share sold to Swartz, we will receive the lesser of the market price of our stock minus $0.12 or 93% of the market price. Throughout this Prospectus, we refer to our election to sell stock to Swartz as a "Put Right." The Agreement gives us discretion over the amount and timing of the sales. As partial consideration for Swartz's agreeing to enter the Investment Agreement, we granted Swartz warrants to purchase 500,000 shares of our common stock at an initial exercise price of $2.42 per share. As of the date of this prospectus Swartz does not have, or has ever had, a short position in Tri-Valley.

4.2. Procedure

In order to invoke a Put Right, we must have an effective registration statement on file with the SEC registering the resale of the common shares which may be issued as a consequence of the invocation of that Put Right. We must also be trading on at least the Over the Counter Bulletin Board. We must give Swartz at least 5, but not more than 20, business days advance notice of the date on which we intend to exercise a particular Put Right. The notice must indicate the date we intend to exercise the Put Right and the maximum number of shares of common stock we intend to sell to Swartz as part of such Put Right. We may also designate a maximum dollar amount (not to exceed $2 million) and/or a minimum purchase price. The minimum purchase price may not exceed the lesser of (i) 85% of our stock's closing bid price on the day before we give Swartz notice of the put, or (ii) our stock's closing bid price on the day before we give Swartz notice of the put minus $0.18.

The number of common shares we sell to Swartz in any given Put Right may not exceed the lesser of:

- 1.5 million shares;
- 15% of the aggregate daily reported trading volume of our common stock, excluding certain block trades of 20,000 or more shares of common stock, during the 20 business days after the date of our put notice, excluding any trading day in which the common stock trades below a price based on the minimum price, if any, that we specify in our Put Right notice.
- 15% of the aggregate reported trading volume of our stock, excluding certain block trades of 20,000 or more shares of common stock, during the 20 business days before the Put Right date;
- the intended Put Share amount, specified in our Put Notice; or

- a number of shares that, when added to the number of shares acquired by Swartz under the Investment Agreement during the 61 days preceding the Put Right date, would exceed 9.99% of the total number of shares of our common stock then outstanding.

Swartz will pay us a percentage of the market price for each share of common stock under the Put Right. The market price of our common stock during the 20 business days immediately following the date we exercise a Put Right is used to determine the purchase price Swartz will pay and the number of shares we will issue in return. We call this 20 day period, the "pricing period," throughout this Prospectus. For each share of common stock sold to Swartz, they will pay us the lesser of:

- the market price per share for the applicable pricing period, minus $0.12; or
- 93% of the market price per share for the applicable pricing period.

The Investment Agreement defines market price as the average of the three lowest daily volume weighted average prices of our common stock during the pricing period. However, Swartz must pay at least the designated minimum per share price, if any, that we specify in our notice. If the price of our common stock is below the greater of the designated minimum per share price plus $0.12 or the designated minimum per share price divided by .93 during any of the 20 days during the pricing period, that day is excluded from the 15% limitation described above. Therefore, the amount of cash that we can receive for any such corresponding Put Right may be reduced if we elect to apply a minimum price per share and our stock price declines.

The Investment Agreement requires that we wait a minimum of 5 business days after the end of the pricing period for a prior Put Right before exercising a subsequent Put Right. We may, however, give advance notice of our subsequent Put Right during the pricing period for the prior Put Right. We can only exercise one Put Right during each pricing period.

4.3. Sample Calculations

SAMPLE CALCULATION OF STOCK PURCHASE PRICE AND NUMBER OF SHARES

For example, suppose for our first put we provide a put notice to Swartz, and that we set the threshold price at $1.85 per share, below which we will not sell any shares to Swartz during the pricing period. Suppose further that the total daily trading volume for the 20 trading days immediately preceding the put date is 269,800 shares with no block trades. Under these hypothetical numbers, the maximum amount of shares that could be sold to Swartz is as follows:

- ◆ the total trading volume for the 20 days prior to our put notice (269,800 shares) multiplied by 15% equals 40,470

If the total daily trading volume for the 20 trading days during the actual pricing periods was greater than 269,100 (like our example that follows) then the maximum amount of shares that could be sold will be 40,470.

SAMPLE CALCULATION OF NUMBER OF SHARES

For example, for the first trading day in the example in the table below, the calculation is as follows: multiply 15% times the total shares traded (8,200) to get 1,230 shares. Perform this calculation for each day in the twenty-day pricing period, excluding any days on which trading daily trading price traded below the $1.85 threshold price set by us. In the table below there are no days which must be excluded.

Totals:	270,500	40,575

1. The volume weighted average prices are illustrative only and should not be interpreted as a forecast of share prices or the expected or historical volatility of the share prices of our common stock.

The total number of shares that we would issue to Swartz for this put would be 40,470 shares, which was previously calculated as the maximum number of shares that could have been sold based on multiplying 15% by the total trading volume for the 20 trading days prior to the put date (even though 15% multiplied by the total shares traded during the purchase period equals 40,575 shares). The purchase price for these shares would be the lesser of the market price for each applicable pricing period minus $0.12 or 93% of the market price for such pricing period, provided that the purchase price shall in no event be less than the threshold ("floor") price we set. Market price is defined as the average of the three lowest daily volume weighted average prices (provided by Bloomberg) of our common stock during the pricing period. In our example above, assume the three lowest daily volume weighted average prices were $2.00, $2.02 and $2.04 during the pricing period. Swartz will purchase shares at $1.88 (93% of the average of the three day volume weighted average prices) per share. Therefore, for 40,470 shares we would receive approximately $76,084 from this put. There is no placement agent involved in this transaction to receive any other fees.

We are registering a total of 8,000,000 shares to be sold to Swartz. Therefore, in order for the company to receive $15,000,000, the average sale price of these shares would need to be $1.875 per share. Our average closing price for the 30 day trading period ending on October 5, 2001, on the Over-The-Counter Bulletin Board was $1.73. The maximum allowable number of shares per Put Right under the Investment Agreement is 1,500,000 shares. Assuming our trading price remained at this level, if we put the maximum allowable shares per put to Swartz under the Investment Agreement, each put would yield the maximum of $2,000,000 in proceeds to us. The restrictions discussed, such as the restriction limiting the put amount to a percentage of our aggregate trading volume, may operate to prevent us from putting the maximum allowable number of shares. The average trading volume for the 30 day trading period beginning on October 5, 2001, was 17,491 shares per day. At that volume level, the Company would have been restricted to putting 2,470 (15% of 17,491) shares per day to Swartz or 49,400 shares for the Put period. Assuming the average of the three lowest daily volume weighted average prices was $1.73, Swartz would purchase shares at $1.61 (93% of $1.73) yielding approximately $79,534 ($1.61 multiplied by 49,400) in the 20 day Put period.

4.4. Limitations and Conditions to our Put Rights

Our ability to Put shares of our common stock, and Swartz's obligation to purchase the shares, is subject to the satisfaction at the time of each Put of certain conditions. These conditions include, among others:

- we have satisfied all obligations under the agreements entered into between us and Swartz in connection with the Swartz Investment Agreement;
- our common stock is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board and we have not received any notice of suspension or delisting of the shares;
- our representations and warranties in the Investment Agreement are accurate as of the date of each Put;
- we have reserved for issuance a sufficient number of shares of our common stock to satisfy our obligations to issue shares under any Put and upon exercise of 500,000 warrants; and
- this registration statement is effective and no stop order relating to it is in effect.

If any of the following events occur during the pricing period for a put, the pricing period shall extend for 10 business days after such an event, and the trading volume for the remaining days in the pricing period shall not be included in the volume limitations:

- we have announced or implemented a subdivision or combination of our common stock;
- we have paid a common stock dividend;
- we have made a distribution of all or any portion of our assets between the Put Notice Date and the date the particular put closes; or
- we have consummated a major transaction between the advance Put Notice date and the date the particular put closed.

Our right to Put shares to Swartz will terminate permanently if:

- we, or any of our directors or executive officers, have engaged in a transaction or conduct related to us that resulted in a Securities and Exchange Commission enforcement action, or a civil judgment or criminal conviction or for fraud or misrepresentation or any other offense that, if prosecuted criminally, would constitute a felony under applicable law;
- we reach the maximum investment limit of $15 million;
- we file for bankruptcy or any other proceeding for the relief of debtors;

15

- we materially breach covenants we made in the Investment Agreement; or
- this registration statement is not declared effective by September 13, 2002.

4.5. Short Sales

The Investment Agreement prohibits Swartz and its affiliates from engaging in short sales of our common stock unless Swartz has received a Put notice and the amount of shares involved in the short sale does not exceed the number of shares we specify in the Put notice plus any other shares Swartz has acquired under the Investment Agreement.

4.6. Put Interruption and Cancellation

Once we deliver a Put notice to the Investor, we may not cancel the Put. However, a Put may be interrupted, which will change the pricing period and cause any minimum share price set by us to be void. We must cancel a particular put if between the date of the advanced Put Notice and the last day of the pricing period:

- we discover an undisclosed material fact that would require the registration statement to be amended or supplemented in order to remain correct and effective;
- the registration statement registering resales of the common shares becomes ineffective; or
- shares are delisted from the then primary exchange.

4.7. Termination of Investment Agreement

Our right to initiate puts under the Investment Agreement will terminate either three (3) years after the date on which this registration is declared effective by the SEC, or thirty (30) business days after (i) we have delivered Puts for the maximum amount to be sold or (ii) we have given notice to Swartz that we are terminating the Investment Agreement, unless it has been terminated earlier because of a condition listed in Section 4.4 above.

4.8. Costs of Closing the Transaction

All expenses, other than commissions and fees and expenses of counsel to Swartz, incurred in connection with registrations, filings or qualifications pursuant to the Investment Agreement, shall be borne by us.

4.9. Capital Raising Limitations

During the term of the Investment Agreement and for a period of sixty (60) days after the termination of the Investment Agreement, we are prohibited from entering into any private capital raising transaction agreements without obtaining Swartz's prior written approval.

The above restrictions do not apply to the following items, and we may engage in and issue securities in the following transactions without notifying or obtaining approval from Swartz:

- in connection with acquisitions;
- in a primary underwritten offering of our common stock;
- upon conversion or exercise of currently outstanding options, warrants or other convertible securities;
- under any option or restricted stock plan for the benefit of employees or directors; or
- upon the issuance of debt securities with no equity feature for working capital purposes.

4.10. Warrants Issued to Swartz

On April 20, 2001, we granted Swartz warrants to purchase 500,000 shares of our common stock at an initial exercise price of $2.42 per share, the closing price of our stock on August 20, 2001. The shares underlying these warrants are being registered in this registration statement. The warrants expire five years after the date of the agreement. The warrants become exercisable on the following schedule:

- 166,666 became exercisable in August 2001.
- 333,334 became exercisable on the date of our Investment Agreement with Swartz.

The exercise price of the warrants may be adjusted downward if we issue any common stock, warrants or options to a third party at a price less than the exercise price then in effect, except for (x) issuances of up to 50,000 shares in connection with project financing for oil, gas or mineral development or (y) issuances under our 1998 employee stock option plan. The warrants also contain anti-dilution provisions providing for adjustment of the exercise price and/or the number of shares of common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants in the event of any recapitalization, reorganization, reclassification, stock dividend, stock split, stock combination, merger or similar transaction.

4.11. Registration Rights

When we executed the Investment Agreement, we also entered a registration rights agreement with Swartz. That agreement obligates us to use our best efforts to cause this registration statement to become effective with the Securities and Exchange Commission by December 18, 2001. If the SEC comments on our registration statement, we must respond to their comments within 45 days. If we fail to meet either deadline, the registration rights agreement requires us to pay a $500 per day penalty fee for every business day we are late.

4.12. Swartz's Right of Indemnification

We have agreed to indemnify Swartz, including its owners, employees, investors and agents, from all liability and losses resulting from any misrepresentations or breaches by us under the Investment Agreement, certain related agreements including the Registration Rights Agreement, or this registration statement. We have also agreed to indemnify these persons for any claims based on a breach by us, our directors or officers of a fiduciary duty, or a violation of Section 5 of the Securities Act caused by the integration of the private sale of our common stock to Swartz and the public offering under this registration statement.

5. THE SELLING SECURITY HOLDER

Name of Selling Shareholder	-	Shares Owned Prior to Offering	Shares of Common Stock Offered	-	Amount and Percentage of Common Stock after the Offering Number(2) %
Swartz Private Equity, LLC(1)	-	0	8,500,000	0 *

* Represents less than one percent.

1. Represents up to 8,000,000 shares of our common stock that we may sell to Swartz pursuant to the Investment Agreement and 500,000 shares of our common stock that we may issue to Swartz upon Swartz's exercise of the commitment warrant issued to them in connection with the Equity Line Investment agreement (these shares would not be deemed to be beneficially owned within the meaning of Sections 13(d) and 13(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 before their acquisition by Swartz). It is expected that Swartz will not own beneficially more than 9.9% of our outstanding common stock at any time.
2. Assumes that the selling shareholder will resell all of the offered shares and the selling shareholder will retain no shares for their own account.

Swartz is not an affiliate of ours and has not had any material relationship with us during the past three years. See, Section 4, The Investment Agreement, page 11.

6. PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

Swartz is offering the common stock for its account as statutory underwriter within the meaning of Section 2(a)(ii)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended and not for our account. Accordingly, Swartz will be subject to prospectus delivery requirements.

The common stock may be offered for sale and sold by the Swartz in one or more transactions (including block transactions), at market prices prevailing at the time of sale, at prices related to such prevailing market prices or at prices determine on a negotiated or competitive bid basis.

The common stock may be sold through a broker-dealer acting as an agent or a principal. These broker-dealers may receive compensation in the form of discounts, concessions or commissions from the selling shareholders. They may also receive compensation from the purchasers of our common stock for whom such broker-dealers may act as agents or to whom they sell as principal, or both (which compensation as to a particular broker-dealer might be in excess of customary commissions).

We have informed Swartz that the anti-manipulation rules of the SEC, including Regulation M promulgated under the Securities Exchange Act, will apply to its sales in the market. Regulation M may limit the timing of purchases and sales of any of the shares of our common stock by the selling shareholder and any other person distributing our common stock. The anti-manipulation rules under the Securities Exchange Act may apply to sales of shares of our common stock in the market and to the activities of the selling shareholders and their affiliates. Furthermore, Regulation M of the Securities Exchange Act may restrict the ability of any person engaged in the distribution of shares of our common stock to engage in market-making activities with respect to the particular shares of common stock being distributed for a period of up to five business days prior to the commencement of such distribution. All of the foregoing may affect the marketability of our common stock and the ability of any person or entity to engage in market-making activities with respect to our common stock.

Rules 101 and 102 under Regulation M under the Securities Exchange Act, among other things, generally prohibit certain participants in a distribution from bidding for or purchasing for an account in which the participant has a beneficial interest, any of the securities that are the subject of the distribution. Rule 104 of Regulation M governs bids and purchases made to stabilize the price of a security in connection with a distribution of the security.

Swartz will pay all commissions, transfer taxes and other expenses associated with their sales. Swartz's shares are being registered pursuant to our contractual obligations, and we have agreed to pay the expenses of preparation of this prospectus.

7. DESCRIPTION OF SECURITIES

We are authorized to issue 100 million shares of $0.001 par value common stock. As of August 21, 2001, 19,684,748 shares of our common stock were issued and outstanding, excluding the 500,000 warrants granted to Swartz and 2,534,000 shares issuable upon exercise of options by our officers, directors and an ex-employee. All outstanding shares of common are fully paid and not subject to further calls or assessments.

7.1. Common Stock

Each shareholder of the common stock is entitled to one vote for each share of common stock held on all matters to be voted on by shareholders. Our Certificate of Incorporation precludes cumulative voting in elections of directors. However, because we are qualified to do business in California and our principal place of business and many of our shareholders are in California, we must comply with certain provisions of the California Corporations Code concerning the rights of shareholders. Thus, we are is subject to Section 708 of the California Corporations Code, permitting shareholders to cumulate their votes at any election of directors. In the election of directors, cumulative voting permits each shareholder give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of directors to be elected multiplied by the number of shares held by the shareholder, or to distribute that number of votes among as many candidates as the shareholder sees fit. No shareholder may cumulate votes in an election of directors unless a shareholder has given notice of the intention to cumulate votes prior to the commencement of voting. If any shareholder has given notice of the intent to cumulate votes, then all shareholders may do so.

Shareholders have no preemptive rights or other rights to subscribe for additional shares.

Shareholders have no conversion rights, redemption rights, or sinking fund provisions. Shareholders are entitled to receive dividends, when declared by its board of directors, out of funds legally available therefore, subject to the restrictions set forth in the Delaware Statutes. If we were to liquidate, dissolve, or wind up, the holders of the common stock would be entitled to receive, pro rata, our net assets remaining after we satisfy our obligations to creditors. Under our Certificate of Incorporation, we have eliminated the potential liability of directors to it, and is also required to indemnify its directors against any liability for monetary damages, to the extent allowed by Delaware law. All outstanding shares of common stock are fully paid and not subject to further calls or assessments.

7.2. Preferred Stock

We are authorized to issue up to 5,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $.001 per share. No shares of preferred stock have been issued. Our board of directors has the power to specify any dividends, powers, rights, or preferences for the preferred stock, in the event any preferred is issued.

7.3. Anti-Takeover Provisions

The Share Purchase Rights Plan

At our annual meeting of the shareholders in November 1999, the shareholders voted in favor of amending the Certificate of Incorporation to increase the shares of common stock we are authorized to issue to 100 million shares. One reason for the increase was to permit the board to adopt a Share Purchase Rights Plan. After the shareholders approved the amendment, the board adopted the Rights Plan.

The Rights Plan is designed to protect and maximize the value of the outstanding equity interests in Tri-Valley in the event of an unsolicited attempt by an acquirer to take over Tri-Valley, in a manner or on terms not approved by the board of directors. Takeover attempts frequently include coercive tactics to deprive a company's board of directors and its stockholders of any real opportunity to determine the destiny of the company. The rights were declared in order to deter these types of coercive tactics, which, include a gradual accumulation of shares in the open market of a 15% or greater position to be followed by a merger or a partial or two-tier tender offer that does not treat all stockholders equally. These tactics unfairly pressure stockholders, squeeze them out of their investment without giving them any real choice and deprive them of the full value of their shares.

Our board of directors believes the rights represent a sound and reasonable means of addressing the complex issues of corporate policy created by the current takeover environment. However, the rights may have the effect of rendering more difficult or discouraging an acquisition of Tri-Valley deemed undesirable by the board of directors. The rights may cause substantial dilution to a person or group that attempts to acquire Tri-Valley on terms or in a manner not approved by our board of directors.

Pursuant to the Share Purchase Rights Plan, we will issue one preferred stock share purchase right for each outstanding share of common stock. Each right entitles the registered holder to purchase from the Company 1/100 of a share of our preferred stock at a purchase price of $20 per share, subject to adjustment. The rights become exercisable after the lapse of either (i) 10 days following a public announcement or disclosure that a person or group of affiliated or associated persons, or an acquiring person, has acquired beneficial ownership of 15% or more of the outstanding shares of our common stock, or (ii) 10 business days, or a later date as may be determined by the board prior to the time a person or group becomes an acquiring person, following the announcement of an intention to make a tender offer or exchange offer the consummation of which would result in a person or group becoming an acquiring person.

The earlier of those dates is called the distribution date. No person or group will be an acquiring person if the board determines in good faith that the person or group who would otherwise be an acquiring person has become one inadvertently, and that person or group promptly takes the actions necessary so that it would no longer be considered an acquiring person.

The rights will expire in December 2009, ten years after the board adopted the rights plan, unless the rights are redeemed earlier or unless the board elects to extend the expiration date.

The number of outstanding rights and the number of shares of common stock issuable upon the exercise of each right also will be subject to adjustment in the event of a stock split of the common stock or a stock dividend on the common stock payable in common stock or subdivisions, consolidations or combinations of the common stock occurring, in any such case, prior to distribution of the rights.

If any person or group becomes an acquiring person, each holder of a right, other than the acquiring person, will have the right to receive upon exercise that number of shares of common stock having a market value of two times the exercise price of the right unless the event causing the person or group to become an acquiring person is a merger, acquisition or other business combination described in the next paragraph. If we do not have a sufficient amount of authorized common stock to satisfy the obligation to issue shares of common stock, we must deliver upon payment of the exercise price of a right an amount of cash or other securities equivalent in value to the shares of common stock issuable upon exercise of a right.

If any person or group becomes an acquiring person and (i) we merge into or engage in certain other business combination transactions with an acquiring person, or (ii) 50% or more of our consolidated assets or earning power are sold to an acquiring person, each holder of a right, other than the acquiring person will have the right to receive that number of shares of common stock of the acquiring company which will have a market value of two times the exercise price of the right.

At any time after any person becomes an acquiring person and prior to that person or group acquiring 50% or more of the outstanding shares of common stock, the board may exchange the rights, other than rights owned by the acquiring person, at an exchange ratio of one share of common stock, or 1/100 of a preferred share per right.

With certain exceptions, no adjustment in the purchase price will be required until cumulative adjustments require an adjustment of a least 1% in the purchase price. No fractional preferred shares will be issued. However, fractions which are integral multiples of 1/100 of a preferred share may, at our election, be evidenced by depositary receipts. In lieu of fractional shares, an adjustment in case will be based on the market price of the preferred shares on the last trading day prior to the date of exercise.

At any time prior to such time as a person or group becomes an acquiring person, the board may redeem all, but not some, of the rights at a price of $0.001 per right. The redemption of the rights may be made effective at the time, on the basis and with any conditions as the Board in its sole discretion may establish. After the period for redemption of the rights has expired, the Board may not amend the rights agreement to extend the period for redemption of the rights. The right to exercise the rights terminates immediately when they are redeemed and the only right of the holders of rights after that time will be to receive the redemption price.

The terms of the rights may be amended by a resolution of the board without the consent of the holders of the rights. However, from and after such time as any person or group becomes an acquiring person, no amendment may adversely affect the interests of the holders of the rights other than an acquiring person.

The rights, by themselves, confer no rights as a Tri-Valley stockholder (such as voting or dividend rights) until the right is exercised.

The preferred shares purchasable upon exercise of the rights, described above, will not be redeemable. Each preferred share will be entitled to a quarterly dividend payment of 100 times the dividend declared per share of common stock. Each preferred share will have 100 votes, voting together with the shares of common stock. In the event of any merger, consolidation or other transaction in which shares of common stock are exchanged, each preferred share will be entitled to receive 100 times the amount received per share of common stock. In the event of liquidation, each preferred share will be entitled to a $ 1.00 preference, and after payment of the preference, the holders of the preferred shares will be entitled to an aggregate payment of 100 times the aggregate payment made per share of common stock. Because of the nature of the preferred shares' dividend, liquidation and voting rights, the value of the 1/100 interest in a preferred share purchasable upon exercise of each right should approximate the value of the one share of common stock.

A copy of the rights agreement that was adopted by the board has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission as an exhibit to our annual report on Form 10-KSB for the year ended December 31, 1999.

The Delaware Business Combination Statute

In addition to the rights agreement, our shareholders have elected to make the company subject to Section 203(b) of the Delaware General Corporation Law. Section 203 is the Delaware business combination statute. It has the effect of deterring hostile takeovers by preventing business combinations with an interested stockholder for a period of three years after that person becomes an interested stockholder. An "interested stockholder" is basically defined by the statute as any owner of 15% or more of the voting stock in a corporation. A "business combination" is defined to include any merger, exchange of corporate assets or stock (including in a subsidiary), or issuance of loans of other benefits.

However, Section 203 does not preclude all business combinations between Tri-Valley and an interested stockholder during that three-year period. Such business combinations may be permitted with an interested stockholder if:

- the business combination transaction, or the transaction in which the interested stockholder became an interested stockholder, is approved by our board of directors prior to the date the interested stockholder obtained this status;
- on or subsequent to this date the business combination is approved by our board of directors and authorized at an annual or special meeting of stockholders by the affirmative vote of at least 66.66% of the shares of our outstanding common stock which are not owned by the interested stockholder; or
- upon consummation of the transaction which resulted in the stockholder becoming an interested stockholder, the interested stockholder owned at least 85% of the shares of our common stock outstanding at the time the transaction commenced, excluding for purposes of determining the number of shares outstanding those shares owned by:
 - persons who are directors and also officers; and
 - employee stock plans in which employee participants do not have the right to determine confidentially whether shares held subject to the plan will be tendered in a tender or exchange offer.

The provisions of Section 203 may encourage persons interested in acquiring Tri-Valley to negotiate in advance with our board, since the stockholder approval requirement would be avoided if a majority of the directors then in office approves either the business combination or the transaction which results in any such person becoming an interested stockholder.

There is a risk that this amendment could make it more difficult to accomplish transactions which Tri-Valley's stockholders may otherwise deem to be in their best interests. It is possible that Section 203 might discourage potential purchasers from considering a bid for Tri-Valley's stock, because it will be harder to acquire controlling interest in Tri-Valley if our board decides an offer is not in the best interest of shareholders.

Section 203 automatically applies to corporations which have a class of stock that is (1) listed on a national securities exchange; (2) authorized for quotation on Nasdaq; or (3) held of record by more than 2,000 stockholders. We believe that we have 2,000 shareholders, more or less. The shareholders' election (adopted at our 2000 annual meeting) means that Section 203 applies to us no matter whether we have more or less than 2,000 record shareholders.

To our knowledge, currently there are no "interested stockholders" who would be subject to the restrictions on business combinations contained in Section 203, and we do not know of any any currently proposed transactions which would make anyone become an "interested stockholder."

10. DISCLOSURE OF COMMISSION POSITION ON INDEMNIFICATION

Under our Certificate of Incorporation, we have eliminated the potential liability of directors to us, and we are required to indemnify our directors against any liability for monetary damages, to the extent allowed by California law. The California Corporations Code allows corporations, including our Company, to eliminate or limit the liability of directors for monetary damages except to the extent that the acts of the director are in bad faith, constitute intentional or reckless misconduct, result in an improper personal benefit, or amount to an abdication of the directors' duty. The Corporations Code provisions do not affect the availability of equitable remedies against directors nor change the standard of duty to which directors are held. Our Certificate of Incorporation also provide that if California law is amended to provide additional indemnity or relief from liability to directors, such relief or indemnity shall automatically be applied for the benefit of our directors.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has stated that, in its opinion, indemnification of officers and directors for violations of federal securities laws is unenforceable and void as a matter of public policy.

Item 15 Indemnification of Directors and Officers

Under our Certificate of Incorporation, we have eliminated the potential liability of Directors to us, and we are also required to indemnify our Directors against any liability for monetary damages, to the extent allowed by California law. The California Corporations Code allows corporations, including our Company, to eliminate or limit the liability of directors for monetary damages except to the extent that the acts of the director are in bad faith, constitute intentional or reckless misconduct, result in an improper personal benefit, or amount to an abdication of the directors' duties. The Corporations Code provisions do not affect the availability of equitable remedies against directors nor change the standard of duty to which directors are held. Our Certificate of Incorporation also provide that if California law is amended to provide additional indemnity or relief from liability to directors, such relief or indemnity shall automatically be applied for the benefit of our Directors.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has stated that, in its opinion, indemnification of officers and directors for violations of federal securities laws is unenforceable and void as a matter of public policy. If a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by us of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer, or controlling person of the Company in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by a director, officer, or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, we will, unless in the opinion of our counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Act and will be governed by final adjudication.

Item 16 Exhibits and Financial Statements

See the Exhibit Index, which is incorporated herein by reference.

Item 17 Undertakings

The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes:

(a) To file, during any period in which it offers or sells securities, a post-effective amendment to this registration statement:

(1) To include any additional material information on the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the registration statement or any material change to such information in the registration statement.

(b) That, for determining liability under the Securities Act of 1933, the Registrant will treat each post-effective amendment as a new registration statement of the securities offered, and the offering of the securities at that time to be the initial bona fide offering.

(c) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities that remain unsold at the end of the offering.

The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes that, for the purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each filing of the Registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered herein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

Because indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted for directors, officers, and controlling persons of the Registrant pursuant to the provisions set forth or described in Item of this Registration Statement, or otherwise, the Registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act of 1933 and is, therefore, unenforceable. If a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the Registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act of 1933 and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.
