FIDELITY NATIONAL SELLS CREDIT CARD PORTFOLIO TO BANK ONE

ATLANTA, GA (December 20, 2002) Fidelity National Corporation ( Fidelity ) (NASDAQ:LION) has signed a definitive agreement to sell its $74 million credit card portfolio to Bank One, the companies announced today. The portfolio includes approximately 41,000 accounts. Terms were not announced.

The companies also agreed on a long-term agent bank relationship to offer Fidelity-branded credit cards to customers, with servicing provided by Bank One, the country's largest issuer of Visa cards.

Bank One's customer service record ensures our credit card customers will continue to receive excellent service while we grow the core Community Bank by offering a full array of the best products to our customers in the Atlanta market, said Fidelity Chairman James B. Miller, Jr. This will permit a significant increase in branch and consumer lending and in commercial lending to Fidelity's core business customers, he noted.

Increased marketing efforts are expected to generate many thousands of new Fidelity-branded credit cards among Atlanta retail and business customers in the next year. As a result of this transaction, Fidelity will realize a substantial gain, and enhance its capital position.

The Bank One alliance follows similar trust and marketing initiatives taken in the last 15 months, which significantly broaden Fidelity's product line, improve shareholder value through profitability and capital growth, and heighten Fidelity's community bank growth focus on Atlanta, one of the best banking markets in the country.

Howard Griffith, Chief Financial Officer of Fidelity National Corporation, said, Fourth quarter financials will include the effects of this transaction, which provided a significant one-time gain. In addition, Fidelity's Statement of Income will reflect credit card activities as a discontinued operation. Historical results will be restated for comparative purposes.
