On February 28, 2019, Dermira, Inc. ( Dermira ) entered into the First Amendment to License Agreement (the Amendment ) with F. Hoffmann-La Roche Ltd and Genentech, Inc. (together, Roche ), which amends the License Agreement, dated August 8, 2017, by and between Dermira and Roche to, among other things:

provide that Roche will supply Dermira with up to approximately $16 million in existing lebrikizumab drug substance, free of charge; reduce Dermira's milestone payment obligation to Roche in connection with the initiation of Dermira's first Phase 3 clinical study of lebrikizumab from $40 million to $20 million; eliminate Dermira's milestone payment obligation to Roche upon the submission of the first application for regulatory approval of lebrikizumab in the United States, reducing the aggregate amount payable by Dermira to Roche in connection with the submission of applications for regulatory approval of lebrikizumab in certain territories from $50 million to $20 million; and revise Dermira's obligation to make royalty payments representing percentages of tiers of annual net sales of lebrikizumab such that the percentages are increased but the range of percentages still begins in the high single-digits for the first annual net sales tier and ends in the high teens for annual net sales in excess of $3 billion.

The foregoing summary of the Amendment does not purport to be complete and is subject to, and qualified in its entirety by, the Amendment, which will be filed as an exhibit to Dermira's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ending March 31, 2019.
