Item 8.01. Other Events.

On September 17, 2018, BioCryst Pharmaceuticals, Inc., (the “Company”) announced that the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (“NIAID”), part of the National Institutes of Health, has awarded BioCryst an additional $3.5 million to support clinical trials of galidesivir in patients with yellow fever.

On September 17, 2018, the Company issued a news release announcing the events described in this Item 8.01. A copy of the news release is filed as Exhibit 99.1 hereto and is incorporated herein by reference.

Forward-Looking Statements

This Current Report on Form 8-K contains forward-looking statements, including statements regarding future results, performance or achievements. These statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors which may cause BioCryst’s actual results, performance or achievements to be materially different from any future results, performances or achievements expressed or implied by the forward-looking statements. These statements reflect our current views with respect to future events and are based on assumptions and are subject to risks and uncertainties. Given these uncertainties, you should not place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements. Some of the factors that could affect the forward-looking statements contained herein include: that additional funding will be required for further development of galidesivir, which additional funding may not be awarded or available; that the development of galidesivir may take longer than expected; that the planned clinical trials or other development programs of galidesivir for the treatment of yellow fever, Marburg virus disease, Ebola virus disease or other potential indications may be unsuccessful or may not be completed; that galidesivir may not be approved by regulatory agencies or purchased by any government agency; and that government contracts contain certain terms and conditions, including termination provisions, that subject the company to additional risks. Please refer to the documents BioCryst files periodically with the Securities and Exchange Commission, specifically BioCryst’s most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K, Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q, and Current Reports on Form 8-K, all of which identify important factors that could cause the actual results to differ materially from those contained in BioCryst’s projections and forward-looking statements.
