PROXY STATEMENT

INTRODUCTION

This proxy statement is furnished to the shareholders of LabOne, Inc., a Missouri corporation ("LabOne"), in connection with the solicitation of proxies by the board of directors of LabOne ("Board") for use at the annual meeting of shareholders to be held on Wednesday, May 21, 2003, at 3:00 p.m., local time, at the offices of LabOne, 10101 Renner Boulevard, Lenexa, Kansas, and at any adjournment thereof (the "annual meeting"). This proxy statement, the notice and the accompanying form of proxy were first mailed to the shareholders on or about April 16, 2003.

VOTING RIGHTS

General

Shareholders of record at the close of business on April 7, 2003, are entitled to notice of and to vote at the meeting. There were 11,328,219 shares of Common Stock and 35,000 shares of Series B-1 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock ("Series B-1 Convertible Preferred Stock") outstanding at the close of business on that date.

Holders of shares of Common Stock are entitled to one vote per share on all matters presented to a shareholder vote, other than the election of directors, as to which cumulative voting applies. Holders of shares of Series B-1 Convertible

Preferred Stock will not vote on the election of directors, Proposal 1. Holders of shares of Series B-1 Convertible Preferred Stock are entitled to vote on all other matters presented to a shareholder vote together with the holders of Common Stock as a single class and are entitled to 126 votes per share of Series B-1 Convertible Preferred Stock.

Cumulative Voting for Directors

Under cumulative voting, each shareholder is entitled to cast as many votes as shall equal the number of shares held by the shareholder multiplied by the number of directors to be elected, and such votes may all be cast for a single director or may be distributed among the directors to be elected as the shareholder wishes. If a shareholder desires to cumulate his or her votes, the accompanying proxy should be marked to indicate clearly that the shareholder desires to exercise the right to cumulate votes and to specify how the votes are to be allocated among the nominees for directors. For example, a shareholder may write "cumulate" on the proxy and write below the name of the nominee or nominees for whom the shareholder desires to cast votes the number of votes to be cast for such nominee or nominees. Alternatively, without exercising his or her right to vote cumulatively, a shareholder may instruct the proxy holders not to vote for one or more of the nominees by lining through the name(s) of such nominee or nominees on the proxy. If the proxy is not marked with respect to the election of directors, authority will be granted to the persons named in the proxy to cumulate votes if they so choose and to allocate votes among the nominees in such a manner as they determine is necessary in order to elect all or as many of the nominees as possible.

Voting by Proxy

When a proxy in the accompanying form is properly executed and returned, the shares represented by the proxy will be voted at the annual meeting in the manner specified by the shareholder. If no instructions are specified, authority will be granted to vote such shares FOR (1) the election of the two nominees named herein as class A directors, and (2) the approval of the appointment of KPMG LLP as the Company's independent auditor for 2003. Unless otherwise indicated on the proxy, discretionary authority will be granted to the persons named in the proxy to vote the shares represented by the proxy (a) cumulatively for the election of directors and (b) with respect to procedural matters and other matters that properly come before the meeting for which LabOne did not receive notice a reasonable time before the date of the mailing of this proxy statement.

Quorum

Representation in person or by proxy of a majority of the outstanding shares of Common Stock entitled to vote at the annual meeting, treating Series B-1 Convertible Preferred Stock as outstanding on an as-converted to Common Stock basis, constitutes a quorum for the transaction of business at the annual meeting. If a quorum is not obtained at the annual meeting, the meeting may be adjourned until such time as a quorum is obtained. Abstentions, votes withheld for the election of directors and broker non-votes (shares held by brokers and other nominees or fiduciaries that are present at the meeting but not voted on a particular matter) will be treated as shares of Common Stock present for purposes of determining the presence of a quorum for the transaction of business.

Required Vote

Nominees for director will be elected by the affirmative vote of a plurality of shares of Common Stock entitled to vote on the election of directors and represented, in person or by proxy, at the annual meeting. The two nominees receiving the greatest number of votes will be elected as directors. Holders of Series B-1 Convertible Preferred Stock will not vote on the election of directors, Proposal 1. Votes withheld and broker non-votes will not affect the outcome of the election of directors.

Approval of the appointment of the independent auditor, Proposal 2, requires the affirmative vote of the majority of the votes attributable to the shares of Common Stock and Series B-1 Convertible Preferred Stock, voting together as a single class, that are entitled to vote on the Proposal and represented, in person or by proxy, at the annual meeting.

Abstentions on this matter will have the effect of negative votes. Broker non-votes will not affect the outcome of the vote on this matter.

Revocation of Proxies

A shareholder may revoke his or her proxy at any time before it is voted by giving to the Secretary of LabOne written notice of revocation bearing a later date than the proxy, by submitting a later-dated proxy, or by revoking the proxy and voting in person at the annual meeting. Attendance at the annual meeting will not in and of itself constitute a revocation of a proxy. Any written notice revoking a proxy should be sent to Mr. Joseph C. Benage, Secretary, LabOne, Inc., 10101 Renner Boulevard, Lenexa, Kansas 66219.

SOLICITATION OF PROXIES

The cost of soliciting proxies will be borne by LabOne. Proxies may be solicited by certain of LabOne's directors, officers, and regular employees, without additional compensation, in person or by telephone, email or facsimile. LabOne will request brokers and nominees who hold shares of Common Stock in their names to furnish proxy materials to beneficial owners of the shares and will reimburse such brokers and nominees for their reasonable expenses incurred in forwarding solicitation materials to such beneficial owners.

One class of directors is elected each year to hold office for a three-year term and until the successors of such class are duly elected and qualified. Each of the nominees listed below is currently serving as a class A director.

In connection with the financing provided by Welsh, Carson, Anderson & Stowe, L.P. In connection with the financing provided by WCAS IX, WCAS IX and certain members of the family of W. Thomas Grant II, including certain related trusts (the "Grant Family"), entered into a voting agreement, dated as of August 31, 2001 (the "voting agreement"). Under the voting agreement, as amended, certain members of the Grant Family agreed to vote their shares of Common Stock in favor of the election of the director nominees of WCAS IX.

In this context, the Committee has met and held discussions with management and the independent auditor regarding the fair and complete presentation of the Company's results. The Committee has discussed significant accounting policies applied by the Company in its financial statements, as well as alternative treatments. Management represented to the Committee that the Company's financial statements were prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and the Committee has reviewed and discussed the financial statements with management and the independent auditor. The Committee discussed with the Company's independent auditor the matters required to be discussed by Statement on Auditing Standards No. 61, "Communication with Audit Committees."

In addition, the Committee received the written disclosures from the independent auditor required by Independence Standards Board Standard No. 1, "Independence Discussions with Audit Committees," and discussed with the independent auditor their independence in relation to the Company and its management. The Committee also considered whether the provision of non-audit services to the Company by the independent auditor is compatible with the auditor's independence. Employment Agreements

LabOne has employment agreements with each of the Named Executive Officers.

Mr. Grant's agreement provides for his employment for a two-year term from February 2000 to February 2002 and is renewable annually thereafter for successive one-year terms unless LabOne elects not to extend the agreement. Mr. Benage's agreement provides for his employment for a three-year term from May 2001 to May 2004 and is renewable annually thereafter for successive one-year terms unless LabOne elects not to extend the agreement. Mr. Sadler's agreement is renewable annually for successive one-year terms unless LabOne elects not to extend it. The agreements with Mr. McCarty and Mr. Ratterman are terminable on 30 days' notice. The current annual base salaries provided pursuant to these agreements are $325,000 to Mr. Grant, $225,000 to Mr. McCarty, $200,000 to Mr. Ratterman, $175,000 to Mr. Benage, and $175,000 to Mr. Sadler.

In the event that LabOne terminates Mr. Grant without cause (as defined in the agreement), LabOne will pay Mr. Grant a lump sum severance payment equal to his base salary for the balance of the term of his agreement, plus one year's base salary. In the event that LabOne terminates Mr. Benage without cause, LabOne will pay Mr. Benage a lump sum severance payment equal to the greater of his base salary for the balance of the term of his agreement or one year's base salary. If LabOne terminates Mr. Sadler without cause (as defined in the agreement), LabOne will pay Mr. Sadler a lump sum severance payment equal to his base salary for the balance of the term of his agreement, plus 50% of one year's annual base salary. If LabOne terminates Mr. McCarty without cause, LabOne will pay him a severance payment equal to one year's base salary. If LabOne terminates Mr. Ratterman without cause, LabOne will pay him a lump sum severance payment equal to six months' base salary.

Under each of the agreements with the Named Executive Officers, if a change of control of LabOne (as defined in the agreements) occurs when such officer is in LabOne's full-time employment, and within one year after such a change in control the officer's employment is terminated for any reason other than permanent disability, death or normal retirement, LabOne will pay the officer as termination compensation a lump sum amount equal to three times the officer's average annual compensation for the most recent five taxable years (subject to certain limitations prescribed in the Internal Revenue Code) and any remaining term of the officer's agreement will be cancelled. Under each agreement, the officer agrees not to compete with LabOne for a period of two years after the termination of his employment.

Compensation Committee Interlocks and Insider Participation

The Compensation Committee of the Board currently consists of Paul B. Queally, Chairman, D. Scott Mackesy and W. Roger Drury. None of the members of the committee is a current or former employee or officer of LabOne or any of its subsidiaries or has any relationship with LabOne other than those described in this proxy statement.

Compensation Committee Report on Executive Compensation

All issues pertaining to executive compensation are reviewed by the Compensation Committee and recommendations are submitted by the committee to the full Board for approval.

Compensation Philosophy

The philosophy governing executive compensation is based on a belief that management and shareholders have a common goal of increasing the value of LabOne. The business strategy for achieving this goal is expressed in LabOne's mission statement: "LabOne is dedicated to maximizing the return on investment for our shareholders . . . to providing the lowest-cost, highest-quality laboratory testing services for our clients . . . to providing a working environment that emphasizes accountability for results and rewards employees based on their contribution to LabOne's success".

Three principal elements of executive compensation - base salary, annual incentive compensation, and stock options - are used to motivate and reward the accomplishment of annual and long term corporate objectives, build shareholder value, reinforce a strong orientation toward operating excellence, provide variability in individual awards based on contributions to business results, and maintain a competitive compensation package to attract, retain and motivate individuals of the highest professional quality.

Base Salary

Base salaries for 2000 were developed based on a survey conducted in 1999 by the Hay Group, a compensation consulting firm. Base salaries were targeted at the median level of pay for comparable positions in the Hay Group All-Organization Database. The Committee also considered an individual performance evaluation for each executive officer in determining his or her base salary. Base salary decisions were not based upon any specific financial performance measure or criterion with respect to LabOne. Any increases to base salary during 2001 were limited to those instances in which an increase was justified by the individual's performance or increased assumption of responsibilities and ability to affect shareholder value.

In 2002, at the request of the Board, Welsh, Carson, Anderson & Stowe performed a market review of the executive pay programs at peer companies to determine the competitive pay ranges for the chief executive officer, chief operating officer, chief financial officer, general counsel, and chief information officer positions. Based on the results of the market review, individual performance and responsibilities, and the ability of the officer to affect shareholder value, increases to the base salaries of the chief executive officer, the chief operating officer and the chief financial officer were recommended to and approved by the Board effective January 1, 2003, to $325,000, $225,000 and $225,000, respectively.

Annual Incentive Plan

The annual incentive plan is designed to motivate and reward the accomplishment of targeted growth in operating results. The Committee established a goal under the 2002 plan based upon the Committee's judgment of reasonable earnings per share growth over the previous fiscal year. No incentive bonuses were payable under the plan if the minimum earnings threshold was not met. The size of the incentive pool increases pursuant to a formula established by the Committee as earnings increase over the minimum threshold. Under the plan, the incentive pool is distributed to designated officers and managers at year end according to a pre-established weighting. The weighting is based upon management's subjective evaluations of each individual's potential contribution to LabOne's financial and strategic goals for the year, and is reviewed and approved by the Committee. Bonuses accrued to management employees under the plan for 2002 totaled $762,531.

LabOne also pays discretionary annual bonuses to executive officers and key employees of LabOne and its subsidiaries on an irregular basis upon the recommendation of the Committee. In making determinations as to recommended bonuses, the Committee considers the financial condition and the operating results over the last fiscal year, the level of salary, bonus, fringe and other benefits currently provided to the executive and the individual performance of the executive. The Committee's recommendations are based upon its subjective review of these factors and also may be based in part on specific criteria or financial performance measurements. Discretionary bonuses paid to management employees for 2002 totaled $122,500.

Stock Options

The Compensation Committee, as well as the Board, believes that significant stock ownership through stock options by key management employees should be a major incentive in aligning the interests of management and shareholders, because value is only provided if the stock price increases and because stock options have an effective long-term reward and retention function.

LabOne administers the 1987 long-term incentive plan ("1987 Plan") and the 1997 long-term incentive plan ("1997 Plan"). Under the plans, ten-year nonqualified stock options are granted to executive officers and other key employees when they are hired or promoted into eligible positions, with vesting generally occurring over five years. In addition, LabOne administers the Lab Holdings, Inc. 1997 Director Stock Option Plan ("1997 Director Plan"), pursuant to the terms of which certain directors who did not continue in office after the merger hold options to acquire 55,000 shares of LabOne Common Stock.

LabOne also administers the 2001 Long-Term Incentive Plan ("2001 Plan"). The 2001 Plan includes three separate programs designed to further align the interests of employees and directors with the interests of shareholders. The plan includes the Bonus Replacement Stock Option Program, under which LabOne may permit or require employees who are eligible to receive incentive compensation under LabOne's incentive programs to receive nonqualified stock options in lieu of cash. The Stock Program for Outside Directors provides that outside directors of LabOne will receive their annual retainer fees in a combination of cash, shares of LabOne Common Stock and stock options. The Stock Incentive Program permits discretionary awards of stock incentives to officers, directors, key employees and consultants of LabOne.

Chief Executive Officer's Compensation

During 2002 Mr. Grant received an annual base salary of $249,000. In November 2002, the Committee recommended and the Board approved an increase in his salary from $249,000 per annum to $325,000 per annum, effective January 1, 2003. The increase was intended to bring Mr. Grant's salary in line with that paid to chief executive officers at peer companies and to recognize his individual performance and responsibilities and ability to affect shareholder value. Mr. Grant also received a car allowance and other perquisites totaling $9,756 in 2002. In addition, he participated in LabOne's 2002 annual incentive plan. Based on 2002 plan results, Mr. Grant earned an incentive bonus for 2002 of $103,335. During 2002 Mr. Grant also received additional grants of nonqualified stock options to purchase 254,156 shares of LabOne Common Stock.

Deductibility Cap on Compensation Exceeding $1,000,000

The Committee has considered the potential impact of section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code regarding non-deductibility of annual compensation in excess of $1,000,000. The Committee does not believe that section 162(m) will have any material impact upon LabOne, given the current salary and bonus levels of officers of LabOne and the treatment in the regulations of compensation under LabOne's long-term incentive plans. The Committee believes that many of the options currently outstanding are exempt from the deductibility limit under the transition provisions set forth in the regulations under section 162(m). It is the Committee's current intention that options granted under LabOne's long-term incentive plans will qualify as performance-based compensation and be exempt from the deductibility limits of section 162(m). The Committee will continue to evaluate the advisability of qualifying executive compensation for deductibility under section 162(m).
