FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Icahn Announces Tender Offer for ANY AND ALL Outstanding Shares of Oshkosh Corporation at $32.50 Per Share in Cash

Contact: Susan Gordon (212) 702-4309

New York, New York, October 11, 2012 – Carl C. Icahn today announced his intention to initiate an “any and all” tender offer for the outstanding shares of common stock of Oshkosh Corporation at $32.50 per share in cash. The tender offer price represents a premium of approximately 21% over the stock’s closing price on October 10, 2012 (the trading day immediately prior to this announcement), which was $26.85. Mr. Icahn also announced his intention to nominate a slate of directors for election to the Oshkosh board at the upcoming annual meeting.

The tender offer will not be subject to due diligence or financing or any minimum tender condition but will be subject to the election of Mr. Icahn’s nominees to the Oshkosh board at the upcoming annual meeting so that Mr. Icahn’s proposed nominees, if elected, can remove impediments to the offer under Wisconsin law.

The tender offer will have an initial expiration date of 45 days following commencement. We urge you to tender your shares promptly. If we receive at least 25% of the outstanding shares tendered prior to the initial expiration date, we believe this would indicate that we would have an excellent chance of prevailing in our proxy contest. Therefore, at that time, if we receive that level of support for our tender offer, we will extend the offer and seek proxies to elect our slate of nominees at the upcoming annual shareholders meeting.

If, at any time, we receive tenders of 40.1% of the shares (which when added to the shares already held by Icahn will equal 50.1%), we will demand that the current board, in accordance with its fiduciary duty to stockholders, accelerate the upcoming annual meeting to allow the prompt election of our slate of directors so that the tender offer can close quickly. In that regard we note that we are willing to engage in negotiations with Oshkosh immediately in order to obtain its support for the offer and facilitate closing on an expedited basis.

The tender offer will include withdrawal rights so that a tendering shareholder can freely withdraw any shares prior to the acceptance of such shares for payment under the tender offer. We urge shareholders to tender shares and send a strong message to Oshkosh management of the desire of shareholders to accept our offer and close promptly.

Mr. Icahn sought board representation at last year’s annual meeting in an effort to correct what we consider to be long standing problems facing Oshkosh, problems that we believe have contributed to a value gap between the stock price and the value of the assets. After the proxy campaign last year, management of Oshkosh has made lofty promises reminiscent of a politician’s campaign promises. However, it appears to us that instead of any true progress towards unlocking shareholder value, the company has only presented a combination of slogans and aggressive long term projections showing that profitability will increase over the next several years, assuming the economy in the U.S. totally recovers. In our opinion, management has repeatedly refused to take any strategic alternatives seriously, claiming only to quietly “study” options internally.

Mr. Icahn stated “It is clear to me that management has taken a passive attitude to the future of this company, willing to sit back and watch what happens to the defense, housing and construction industries, hoping for a positive outcome and reduced competition. They have suggested that shareholders should be willing to tie a defense contractor and a construction equipment company together, and wait another four years to see if the defense business will be viable on its own, or if it will become an anchor and drag down the entire company. I strongly believe that Oshkosh needs proactive shareholders to bring a proactive management team together to weather a volatile economy, a shrinking defense industry and a budget constrained municipal environment.”

Mr. Icahn continued “Oshkosh’s underlying businesses underwent substantial revenue pressures starting as early as 2006. It took management five years to develop an operating plan to improve performance, and now they seem to expect shareholders to wait until 2015 to see results. We believe that mismanagement of this company has resulted in a lost decade of shareholder value. Apparently, management would like shareholders to ignore this decade long track record along with the potential fiscal cliff, revenue declines and over capacity in the defense industry, and a volatile economy in top growth markets like Brazil. Instead they are asking shareholders to focus on 2015 projections contingent on a global economic boom. We believe that management should be focusing on how best to drive value to shareholders immediately.”
