Edgar Filing: SOUTHWESTERN ENERGY CO - Form 8-K/A

Amendment to question and answer #4 for Conference Call Summary dated April 22, 2002.

4. Farm-in acreage at South Overton. Richard, you mentioned the one well that you drilled there. With the size of the acreage, how many wells will you have to put down on that area to outline it and start feeling this is as low risk as the other Overton areas that you've successfully drilled?

Lane: Well, you'll recall we did drill one there last year as well that was successful. One of the first quarter wells, as you said, was on that acreage, so we now have two good wells on that acreage. We have farmed-in approximately 5,800 acres at South Overton. In terms of how many wells it will take to get the same kind of comfort level we have to the north there in Overton, the circumstances are similar to what they were when we started on Overton in that each unit was a 640 acre unit and already had a well in it. So if you think about it, it's sampled consistently across the acreage. So I think we're close to being there now in terms of our level of confidence in the southern area. We'll do probably two to three more wells on that acreage during 2002.
