Securities Exchange Act of 1934
Subject Company: Marshall & Ilsley Corporation
SEC Registration Statement No.: 333-172012

This filing, which includes (i) Harris website pages providing information on the merger of BMO and M&I, (ii) Harris website pages providing information on the merger for clients of Harris Investor Services, (iii) an @Work article discussing the merger and (iv) customer facing FAQs in connection with the merger, may contain forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 and comparable safe harbour provisions of applicable Canadian legislation, including, but not limited to, statements relating to anticipated financial and operating results, the companies' plans, objectives, expectations and intentions, cost savings and other statements, including words such as anticipate, believe, plan, estimate, expect, intend, will, should, may, and other expressions. Such statements are based upon the current beliefs and expectations of our management and involve a number of significant risks and uncertainties. Actual results may differ materially from the results anticipated in these forward-looking statements. Such factors include, but are not limited to: the possibility that the proposed transaction does not close when expected or at all because required regulatory, shareholder or other approvals and other conditions to closing are not received or satisfied on a timely basis or at all; the terms of the proposed transaction may need to be modified to satisfy such approvals or conditions; the anticipated benefits from the proposed transaction such as it being accretive to earnings, expanding our North American presence and synergies are not realized in the time frame anticipated or at all as a result of changes in general economic and market conditions, interest and exchange rates, monetary policy, laws and regulations (including changes to capital requirements) and their enforcement, and the degree of competition in the geographic and business areas in which M&I operates; the ability to promptly and effectively integrate the businesses of M&I and BMO; reputational risks and the reaction of M&I's customers to the transaction; diversion of management time on merger-related issues; increased exposure to exchange rate fluctuations; and those other factors set out on pages 29, 30, 61 and 62 of BMO's 2010 Annual Report. A significant amount of M&I's business involves making loans or otherwise committing resources to specific companies, industries or geographic areas. Unforeseen events affecting such borrowers, industries or geographic areas could have a material adverse effect on the performance of our integrated U.S. operations. Additional factors that could cause BMO Financial Group's and Marshall & Ilsley Corporation's results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements can be found in the 2010 Annual Report on Form 40-F for BMO Financial Group and the 2010 Annual Report on Form 10-K of Marshall & Ilsley Corporation filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and available at the Securities and Exchange Commission's Internet site (<http://www.sec.gov>). A: No. At this time, there will be no changes to safe deposit boxes other than as previously announced. FDIC Insurance Q: What happens to my insurance coverage if I have deposits at insured banks that merge? How do I verify my FDIC insurance coverage? A: When two or more insured banks merge, deposits from the assumed bank are separately insured from deposits at the assuming bank for at least six months after the merger. This grace period gives a depositor the opportunity to restructure his or her account, if necessary. Certificates of Deposit (CDs) from the assumed bank are separately insured until the earliest maturity date after the end of the six-month grace period. CDs that mature during the six-month period and are renewed for the same term and in the same dollar amount (either with or without accrued interest) continue to be separately insured until the first maturity date after the six-month period. If a CD matures during the six-month grace period and is renewed on any other basis, it would be separately insured only until the end of the six-month grace period. The FDIC has helpful tools to assist you in determining your FDIC insurance coverage. Please visit <http://www.fdic.gov/deposit/deposits/index.html> or call 1-877-ASK-FDIC (1-877-275-3342) or 1-800-925-4618 (hearing impaired line) for more information. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements with respect to the expected closing of the proposed acquisition of M&I, plans for the acquired business and the financial impact of the acquisition and are typically identified by words such as believe , expect , anticipate , intend , estimate , plan , will , should , may , could and other similar expressions. By their nature, forward-looking statements are based on various assumptions and are subject to inherent risks and uncertainties. We caution readers of this communication not to place undue reliance on our forward-looking statements as the assumptions underlying such statements may not turn out to be correct and a number of factors could cause actual future results, conditions, actions or events to differ materially from the targets, expectations, estimates or intentions expressed in the forward-looking statements. Unforeseen events affecting such borrowers, industries or geographic areas could have a material adverse effect on the performance of our integrated U.S. operations. Assumptions about the performance of the Canadian and U.S. economies as well as overall market conditions and their combined effect on the bank's business are material factors we consider when determining our strategic priorities, objectives and expectations for our business. A: No. At this time, there will be no changes to safe deposit boxes other than as previously announced. FDIC Insurance Q: What happens to my insurance coverage if I have deposits at insured banks that merge? How do I verify my FDIC insurance coverage? A: When two or more insured banks merge, deposits from the assumed bank are separately insured from deposits at the assuming bank for at least six months after the merger. This grace period gives a depositor the opportunity to restructure his or her account, if necessary. Certificates of Deposit (CDs) from the assumed bank are separately insured until the earliest maturity date after the end of the six-month grace period. CDs that mature during the six-month period and are renewed for the same term and in the same dollar amount (either with or without accrued interest) continue to be separately insured until the first maturity date after the six-month period. If a CD matures during the six-month grace period and is renewed on any other basis, it would be separately insured only until the end of the six-month grace period. The FDIC has helpful tools to assist you in determining your FDIC insurance coverage. Please visit <http://www.fdic.gov/deposit/deposits/index.html> or call 1-877-ASK-FDIC (1-877-275-3342) or 1-800-925-4618 (hearing impaired line) for more information. Loans/Line of Credit/Mortgages Q: Will there be any changes to my loan or line of credit? A: No. The same terms and conditions as governed by the signed loan documents that apply to your credit facility today will remain through maturity, regardless of the merger. Continue to use your existing coupons to make your loan payments. Q: Will mortgage statements change? A: Only the bank name will change on mortgage statements. Customers may continue to use the same payment address and account number for mortgage loan payments. Q: May I continue to use my line of credit advance checks? A: Yes. Continue to use your existing supply of checks. If you re-order checks, the bank name will change to BMO Harris Bank N.A., which is the new legal name. If your check supply is running low, please contact your banker. Q: May I continue to use my loan coupon book? A: Yes, existing loan coupons may be used and there is no change to the mailing address or account number. Credit Cards, Debit Cards and Payroll Cards Q: Can I continue to use my existing credit cards, debit cards and payroll cards? A: Yes. Please continue to use your credit cards, debit cards(s) and payroll cards as before. Q: What happens to my Harris Everyday Benefits points? A: There will be no changes to your points at this time. Q: Will my online products and services look and operate the same? A: Yes, our online products and services will look and operate the same after the transaction closes. The new legal name, BMO Harris Bank N.A., will appear on Harris websites once the acquisition closes. We will be introducing the new brand name and logo over the next year. In the meantime, you will continue to see the familiar Harris name on our online offerings until our systems are integrated. Safe Deposit Boxes Q: Will my safe deposit box be changing? A: No. At this time, there will be no changes to safe deposit boxes other than as previously announced. FDIC Insurance Q: What happens to my insurance coverage if I have deposits at insured banks that merge? How do I verify my FDIC insurance coverage? A: When two or more insured banks merge, deposits from the assumed bank are separately insured from deposits at the assuming bank for at least six months after the merger. This grace period gives a depositor the opportunity to restructure his or her account, if necessary. Certificates of Deposit (CDs) from the assumed bank are separately insured until the earliest maturity date after the end of the six-month grace period. CDs that mature during the six-month period and are renewed for the same term and in the same dollar amount (either with or without accrued interest) continue to be separately insured until the first maturity date after the six-month period. If a CD matures during the six-month grace period and is renewed on any other basis, it would be separately insured only until the end of the six-month grace period. The FDIC has helpful tools to assist you in determining your FDIC insurance coverage. Please visit <http://www.fdic.gov/deposit/deposits/index.html> or call 1-877-ASK-FDIC (1-877-275-3342) or 1-800-925-4618 (hearing impaired line) for more information. Loans/Line of Credit/Mortgages Q: Will there be any changes to my loan or line of credit? A: No. The same terms and conditions as governed by the signed loan documents that apply to your credit facility today will remain through maturity, regardless of the merger. Continue to use your existing coupons to make your loan payments. Q: Will mortgage statements change? A: Only the bank name will change on mortgage statements. Customers may continue to use the same payment address and account number for mortgage loan payments. Q: May I continue to use my line of credit advance checks? A: Yes. Continue to use your existing supply of checks. If you re-order checks, the bank name will change to BMO Harris Bank N.A., which is the new legal name. Q&A for Small Business Banking Customers | Harris-M&I merger information A: No. You can continue to use your current Corporate Credit Card. *Bank of Montreal and its affiliates are known as BMO Financial Group. Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Information Certain statements in this communication are forward-looking statements under the United States Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 (and are made pursuant to the safe harbour provisions of such Act) and applicable Canadian securities legislation. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements with respect to the expected closing of the proposed acquisition of M&I, plans for the acquired business and the financial impact of the acquisition and are typically identified by words such as believe, expect, anticipate, intend, estimate, plan, will, should, may, could and other similar expressions. By nature, forward-looking statements are based on various assumptions and are subject to inherent risks and uncertainties. We caution readers of this communication not to place undue reliance on our forward-looking statements as the assumptions underlying such statements may not turn out to be correct and a number of factors could cause actual future results, conditions, actions or events to differ materially from the targets, expectations, estimates or intentions expressed in the forward-looking statements. Such factors include, but are not limited to: the possibility that the proposed transaction does not close when expected or at all because required regulatory, shareholder or other approvals and other conditions to closing are not received or satisfied on a timely basis or at all; the terms of the proposed transaction may need to be modified to satisfy such approvals or conditions; the anticipated benefits from the proposed transaction such as it being accretive to earnings, expanding our North American presence and cost savings and synergies are not realized in the time frame anticipated or at all as a result of changes in general economic and market conditions, interest and exchange rates, monetary policy, laws and regulations (including changes to capital requirements) and their enforcement, and the degree of competition in the geographic and business areas in which M&I operates; the ability to promptly and effectively integrate the businesses of M&I and BMO; reputational risks and the reaction of M&I's customers to the transaction; diversion of management time on merger-related issues; increased exposure to exchange rate fluctuations; and those other factors set out on pages 29 and 30 of BMO's 2010 Annual Report. A significant amount of M&I's business involves making loans or otherwise committing resources to specific companies, industries or geographic areas. Unforeseen events affecting such borrowers, industries or geographic areas could have a material adverse effect on the performance of our integrated U.S. operations. Assumptions about the performance of the Canadian and U.S. economies as well as overall market conditions and their combined effect on the bank's business are material factors we consider when determining our strategic priorities, objectives and expectations for our business. In determining our expectations for economic growth, both broadly and in the financial services sector, we primarily consider historical economic data provided by the Canadian and U.S. governments and their agencies. BMO does not undertake to update any forward-looking statement, whether written or oral, that may be made, from time to time, by the organization or on its behalf, except as required by law.

applicable Canadian securities what you re looking for. legislation. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements with respect to the expected closing of the proposed acquisition of M&I, plans for the acquired business and the financial impact of the acquisition and are typically identified by words such as believe , expect , anticipate , intend , estimate , plan , will , should , may , co number of factors could cause actual future results, conditions, actions or events to differ materially from the targets, expectations, estimates or intentions expressed in the forward-looking statements. Such factors include, but are not limited to: the possibility that the proposed transaction does not close when expected or at all because required regulatory, shareholder or other approvals and other conditions to closing are not received or satisfied on a timely basis or at all; the terms of the proposed transaction may need to be modified to satisfy such approvals or conditions; the anticipated benefits from the proposed transaction such as it being accretive to earnings, expanding our North American presence and cost savings and synergies are not realized in the time frame anticipated or at all as a result of changes in general economic and market conditions, interest and exchange rates, monetary policy, laws and regulations (including changes to capital requirements) and their enforcement, and the degree of competition in the geographic and business areas in which M&I operates; the ability to promptly and effectively integrate the businesses of M&I and BMO; reputational risks and the reaction of M&I s customers to the transaction; diversion of management time on merger-related issues; increased exposure to exchange rate fluctuations; and those other factors set out on pages 29 and 30 of BMO s 2010 Annual Report. A significant amount of M&I s business involves making loans or otherwise committing resources to specific companies, industries or geographic areas. Unforeseen events affecting such borrowers, industries or geographic areas could have a material adverse effect on the performance of our integrated U.S. operations. Assumptions about the performance of the Canadian and U.S. economies as well as overall market conditions and their combined effect on the bank s business are material factors we consider when determining our strategic priorities, objectives and expectations for our business. In determining our expectations for economic growth, both broadly and in the financial services sector, we primarily consider historical economic data provided by the Canadian and U.S. governments and their agencies. BMO does not undertake to update any forward-looking statement, whether written or oral, that may be made, from time to time, by the organization or on its behalf, except as required by law. Legal

In the meantime, you will continue to see the familiar Harris name on our online offerings until our systems are integrated. Safe Deposit Boxes Q: Will my safe deposit box be changing? A: No. At this time, there will be no changes to safe deposit boxes other than as previously announced. FDIC Insurance Q: What happens to my insurance coverage if I have deposits at insured banks that merge? How do I verify my FDIC insurance coverage? A: When two or more insured banks merge, deposits from the assumed bank are separately insured from deposits at the assuming bank for at least six months after the merger. This grace period gives a depositor the opportunity to restructure his or her account, if necessary. Certificates of Deposit (CDs) from the assumed bank are separately insured until the earliest maturity date after the end of the six-month grace period. CDs that mature during the six-month period and are renewed for the same term and in the same dollar amount (either with or without accrued interest) continue to be separately insured until the first maturity date after the six-month period. If a CD matures during the six-month grace period and is renewed on any other basis, it would be separately insured only until the end of the six-month grace period. The FDIC has helpful tools to assist you in determining your FDIC insurance coverage. Please visit <http://www.fdic.gov/deposit/deposits/index.html> or call 1-877-ASK-FDIC (1-877-275-3342) or 1-800-925-4618 (hearing impaired line) for more information. Commercial Banking & Treasury Management Services Q: What changes are happening for my Commercial accounts? A: Harris is sending a letter regarding the M&I acquisition to our Commercial deposit account customers which includes an Important Notice and Change in Terms (CIT) to their deposit and cash management agreements and notice of the change of Harris N.A.'s name to BMO Harris Bank N.A., all of which will be effective immediately after the merger. Q: Is anything changing about my account numbers, products or fees? A: Account numbers, products and fees will not change when the transaction closes. If and when changes are made that affect your account numbers, products, or fees, we will communicate that to you in advance. Loans/Line of Credit/Mortgages Q: Will there be any changes to my loan or line of credit? A: No. The same terms and conditions as governed by the signed loan documents that apply to your credit facility today will remain through maturity, regardless of the merger. Continue to use your existing coupons to make your loan payments. Q&A for Harris Private Bank Clients | Harris-M&I merger information Private Bank trust and investment clients will also receive a notice of the merger and name change. Q: I received more than one letter. Why? A: We tried to reduce the number of mailings sent to our customers as much as possible; however, we could not completely minimize them where customers have multiple product and service relationships. If you are a customer of both Harris and M&I, you will receive a mailing from both banks. Q: What does this mean for me today? A: You can expect it to be business-as-usual in the coming months. Continue to bank with us as you do today at your current branches and ATMs, online and by telephone. You can use the same account numbers, checks, bank cards and services you use today. Q: What do I need to do? A: You do not need to do anything at this point. It is business-as-usual. Q: When will I begin to see the new BMO Harris Bank brand name and new logo? A: After the transaction closes, you will continue to see our existing brand names and logos Harris and M&I until we have integrated operations and systems. You will, however, begin to see the BMO Harris Bank N.A. legal name on your statements, bank forms and correspondence, as well as on our branch doors. Q: What does this mean for the bank's community support? A: Harris, M&I and BMO Financial Group share a long tradition of support for the communities they serve through economic development programs, financial contributions and the significant time and efforts volunteered by staff. We remain committed to the community, and through our involvement and investment we will continue to make our communities a better place. Q: Who can I contact with questions? A: You can continue to speak with your branch contacts, your relationship manager or visit our integration site at harrisbank.com/bmoharris. You can also contact us at: Harris Call Centre: 1-888-340-2265 General Banking Q: Can I continue to bank at the same branches and ATMs? A: Continue to bank just as you do today at your current branches with the same friendly faces, ATMs, by telephone and online. Q: As a Harris customer, can I use M&I ATMs? A: You should continue to bank where and how you do today in your local branch, over the telephone and online. After the transaction closes, in addition to Harris ATMs, you will be able to withdraw cash, make deposits (at ATMs that accept deposits), and check your balances without incurring a Non-Harris ATM Transaction fee or an ATM surcharge fee at 480 ATMs with the M&I logo including M&I ATMs located in Arizona, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, and throughout Wisconsin. Q: Can I continue to bank at the same location and with the same banker/relationship manager? A: Yes. Please continue to bank as you do today in your current branch and with the banking professionals you work with currently. Q: Will my bank account number(s) stay the same? A: Account numbers will not change at the closing of the acquisition. If and when changes are made that affect your account numbers, we will communicate that to you in advance. Q: Will the Routing Number stay the same? A: Yes. At this time, the Routing Number we use, which appears on checks, will stay the same. When operations are combined, we will notify you in advance of any changes to your accounts. Q: Can I continue to use my checks? A: Yes. Continue to use your existing supply of checks. If you re-order checks, the bank name will change to BMO Harris Bank N.A., the new legal name. If your check supply is running low, please contact your banker. Q: Will my direct deposits and automatic payments continue? A: Yes. Your account and specific direct deposits and automatic payments will be processed as they are today. If and when changes are made, we will communicate that to you in advance. Q: Will my fees or service charges change? A: It is business-as-usual, which means no changes to fees and service charges, at this time. If and when changes are made that affect fees or service charges, we will communicate that to you in advance.

Q&A for Harris Private Bank Clients | Harris-M&I merger information Q: When will the integration of operations and systems occur? A: Although we don't have a specific date, we are committed to keeping you informed along the way. Our commitment is to deliver a seamless transition for you. Q: What new services will the combined bank offer me/my company? A: As part of the BMO Financial Group, customers already have access to a remarkably broad range of expertise in financial services. After the combination of Harris and M&I into one organization, you will enjoy the benefit of a more expansive geographic footprint and the full breadth of services spanning from east to west. Online Banking Q: How will my online products and services be impacted? Will my day-to-day activities be interrupted? A: Please continue to use our online products and services as you do today. Your online credentials will remain the same and you can continue to access our systems as you do today. All scheduled activities, bill payments and scheduled transfers will continue as you have them scheduled today, until further notice. Should there become a need to make changes to our online products and services; we will notify you in advance of any changes. Please note that we will NEVER solicit confidential information from you via e-mail or text message. Should you receive a request of this nature that appears to be from Harris, please notify us immediately by e-mailing harris.phish@harrisbank.com. Q: Will my online products and services look and operate the same? A: Yes, our online products and services will look and operate the same after the transaction closes. The new legal name, BMO Harris Bank N.A., will appear on Harris websites once the acquisition closes. We will be introducing the new brand name and logo over the next year. In the meantime, you will continue to see the familiar Harris name on our online offerings until our systems are integrated. Safe Deposit Boxes Q: Will my safe deposit box be changing? A: No. At this time, there will be no changes to safe deposit boxes other than as previously announced. FDIC Insurance Q: What happens to my insurance coverage if I have deposits at insured banks that merge? How do I verify my FDIC insurance coverage? A: When two or more insured banks merge, deposits from the assumed bank are separately insured from deposits at the assuming bank for at least six months after the merger. This grace period gives a depositor the opportunity to restructure his or her account, if necessary. Certificates of Deposit (CDs) from the assumed bank are separately insured until the earliest maturity date after the end of the six-month grace period. CDs that mature during the six-month period and are renewed for the same term and in the same dollar amount (either with or without accrued interest) continue to be separately insured until the first maturity date after the six-month period. If a CD matures during the six-month grace period and is renewed on any other basis, it would be separately insured only until the end of the six-month grace period. The FDIC has helpful tools to assist you in determining your FDIC insurance coverage. Please visit <http://www.fdic.gov/deposit/deposits/index.html> or call 1-877-ASK-FDIC (1-877-275-3342) or 1-800-925-4618 (hearing impaired line) for more information. Commercial Banking & Treasury Management Services Q: What changes are happening for my Commercial accounts? A: Harris is sending a letter regarding the M&I acquisition to our Commercial deposit account customers which includes an Important Notice and Change in Terms (CIT) to their deposit and cash management agreements and notice of the change of Harris N.A.'s name to BMO Harris Bank N.A., all of which will be effective immediately after the merger. Q: Is anything changing about my account numbers, products or fees? A: Account numbers, products and fees will not change when the transaction closes. If and when changes are made that affect your account numbers, products, or fees, we will communicate that to you in advance. Loans/Line of Credit/Mortgages Q: Will there be any changes to my loan or line of credit? A: No. The same terms and conditions as governed by the signed loan documents that apply to your credit facility today will remain through maturity, regardless of the merger. Continue to use your existing coupons to make your loan payments. Q: Will mortgage statements change? https://www4.harrisbank.com/vgn/bmoharriswealth_welcome/qa-private-bank.html[04/29/2011 7:46:04 AM]

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Information Certain statements in this communication are forward-looking statements under the United States Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 (and are made pursuant to the safe harbour provisions of such Act) and applicable Canadian securities legislation. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements with respect to the expected closing of the proposed acquisition of M&I, plans for the acquired business and the financial impact of the acquisition and are typically identified by words such as believe, expect, anticipate, intend, estimate, plan, will, should, may, could and other similar expressions. By their nature, forward-looking statements are based on various assumptions and are subject to inherent risks and uncertainties. We caution readers of this communication not to place undue reliance on our forward-looking statements as the assumptions underlying such statements may not turn out to be correct and a number of factors could cause actual future results, conditions, actions or events to differ materially from the targets, expectations, estimates or intentions expressed in the forward-looking statements. Such factors include, but are not limited to: the possibility that the proposed transaction does not close when expected or at all because required regulatory, shareholder or other approvals and other conditions to closing are not received or satisfied on a timely basis or at all; the terms of the proposed transaction may need to be modified to satisfy such approvals or conditions; the anticipated benefits from the proposed transaction such as it being accretive to earnings, expanding our North American presence and cost savings and synergies are not realized in the time frame anticipated or at all as a result of changes in general economic and market conditions, interest and exchange rates, monetary policy, laws and regulations (including changes to capital requirements) and their enforcement, and the degree of competition in the geographic and business areas in which M&I operates; the ability to promptly and effectively integrate the businesses of M&I and BMO; reputational risks and the reaction of M&I's customers to the transaction; diversion of management time on merger-related issues; increased exposure to exchange rate fluctuations; and those other factors set out on pages 29 and 30 of BMO's 2010 Annual Report. A significant amount of M&I's business involves making loans or otherwise committing resources to specific companies, industries or geographic areas. Unforeseen events affecting such borrowers, industries or geographic areas could have a material adverse effect on the performance of our integrated U.S. operations. Assumptions about the performance of the Canadian and U.S. economies as well as overall market conditions and their combined effect on the bank's business are material factors we consider when determining our strategic priorities, objectives and expectations for our business. In determining our expectations for economic growth, both broadly and in the financial services sector, we primarily consider historical economic data provided by the Canadian and U.S. governments and their agencies. BMO does not undertake to update any forward-looking statement, whether written or oral, that may be made, from time to time, by the organization or on its behalf, except as required by law. Combining the best of both banks @Work caught up with Cecily Mistarz, Integration Management Office Director, in Chicago, to talk about the Harris and Marshall & Ilsley integration.

What is the status of the integration work?

We recently achieved significant milestones with the announcement of a new bank name, leaders, and business model that will unify us, post-close, as one North American company 45,000 strong. There is great energy around combining the best of both banks in a way that positions BMO Harris Bank to realize the transformational opportunities of this acquisition for customers and employees.

What's next?

Regulatory approvals and getting BMO Harris Bank to market. Integration teams are drilling down to the complex future-state blueprint work. That means defining organizational alignment across all lines of business to get us to market and, post-close, implementing our plans for customer and employee experience. We are committed to a transition experience for all employees that is engaging, respectful and provides for uninterrupted productivity for customers. To stay true to the BMO culture, customers must remain at the center of everything we do, at every stage of integration and conversion.

How is the IMO driving employee engagement?

We can't succeed without it. We are working through the Employee Experience group to ensure employees of BMO Harris Bank feel informed, connected, and committed to customers and their futures.

To make that happen, the group has begun Pulse Survey Work, conducting one-on-one interviews with leaders at Harris and M&I. They also are convening discussion sessions with customer-facing and corporate support employees from a cross-section of businesses. This survey work will continue post-close and throughout the conversion phase, to ensure a direct line of communication from the field.

It is our goal that employees have the information and the tools and training they need to deliver a great customer experience.

What happens on day one?

We will be BMO Harris Bank. For customers it will be business-as-usual, at their branches, online and on the phone, as we work toward closing and begin the work of integrating the two banks. Following the close of the acquisition, our legal name will change on some documents and some of the signs posted at the branches. We are committed to delivering a seamless transition for our customers, which includes keeping them informed throughout the process.

For employees, we will be focused on keeping you informed and building the culture of one North American company, 45,000 strong, across our expanded U.S. footprint

How are we going to communicate with each other after day one?

We've worked very aggressively to make sure that the BMO Harris intranet site will be available to all BMO Harris Bank employees on day one. That will be the central location for all of us to access the same enterprise news, communication updates, HR information and integration updates. Our intranet site also houses our internal phone directories, which will contain contact information (phone, email, location) for all of us on day one.

What kind of communication can we expect next?

In the coming weeks, our M&I colleagues will receive more information on benefits, policies, and payroll. Additionally, we will be providing customers with advance notice of the Change in Terms (CIT) to their deposit agreements and the change of Harris N.A.'s name to BMO Harris Bank N.A. There are also materials available to address questions that you and your customers may have about customer communications and the acquisition in general. This information is posted to the Harris-M&I Transition site. This site will be updated on a regular basis as the transition progresses. Be sure to check there frequently for new updates.

General

What is changing? Who is BMO Harris Bank N.A.?

On Friday, December 17, 2010 BMO Financial Group* announced a definitive agreement to acquire Marshall & Ilsley Corporation (M&I). As part of this transaction, M&I Marshall & Ilsley Bank, M&I Bank FSB, and The Harris Bank N.A. will be merged with and into Harris N.A. as the surviving bank. When will these changes take place?

After the transaction closes, the bank will be headquartered in the Midwest, providing significant benefits for our customers and the communities that we serve. We anticipate the closing to be completed prior to July 31, 2011. We will let you know when the transaction has closed by posting a notice on our website, harrisbank.com, placing a sign in our branches, or publishing a notice in newspapers.

After the transaction closes, you will continue to see our existing brand names and logos Harris and M&I until we have integrated operations and systems. Harris Investor Services clients and Harris Private Bank trust and investment clients will also receive a notice of the merger and name change.

I received more than one letter. Why?

We tried to reduce the number of mailings sent to our customers as much as possible; however, we could not completely minimize them where customers have multiple product and service relationships. If you are a customer of both Harris and M&I, you will receive a mailing from both banks.

What does this mean for me today?

You can expect it to be business-as-usual in the coming months. Continue to bank with us as you do today at your current branches and ATMs, online and by telephone. You can use the same account numbers, checks, bank cards and services you use today.

You will, however, begin to see the BMO Harris Bank N.A. legal name on your statements, bank forms and correspondence, as well as on our branch doors.

What does this mean for the bank's community support?

Harris, M&I and BMO Financial Group share a long tradition of support for the communities they serve through economic development programs, financial contributions and the significant time and efforts volunteered by staff. We remain committed to the community, and through our involvement and investment we will continue to make our communities a better place.

No. At this time, there will be no changes to safe deposit boxes other than as previously announced.

FDIC Insurance

What happens to my insurance coverage if I have deposits at insured banks that merge? How do I verify my FDIC insurance coverage?

When two or more insured banks merge, deposits from the assumed bank are separately insured from deposits at the assuming bank for at least six months after the merger. This grace period gives a depositor the opportunity to restructure his or her account, if necessary.

Certificates of Deposit (CDs) from the assumed bank are separately insured until the earliest maturity date after the end of the six-month grace period. CDs that mature during the six-month period and are renewed for the same term and in the same dollar amount (either with or without accrued interest) continue to be separately insured until the first maturity date after the six-month period. If a CD matures during the six-month grace period and is renewed on any other basis, it would be separately insured only until the end of the six-month grace period.

The FDIC has helpful tools to assist you in determining your FDIC insurance coverage. Please visit <http://www.fdic.gov/deposit/deposits/index.html> or call 1-877-ASK-FDIC (1-877-275-3342) or 1-800-925-4618 (hearing impaired line) for more information.

Commercial Banking & Treasury Management Services

What changes are happening for my Commercial accounts?

Harris is sending a letter regarding the M&I acquisition to our Commercial deposit account customers which includes an Important Notice and Change in Terms (CIT) to their deposit and cash management agreements and notice of the change of Harris N.A.'s name to BMO Harris Bank N.A., all of which will be effective immediately after the merger.

Is anything changing about my account numbers, products or fees?

Account numbers, products and fees will not change when the transaction closes. If and when changes are made that affect your account numbers, products, or fees, we will communicate that to you in advance.

Loans/Line of Credit/Mortgages

Will there be any changes to my loan or line of credit?

No. The same terms and conditions as governed by the signed loan documents that apply to your credit facility today will remain through maturity, regardless of the merger. Continue to use your existing coupons to make your loan payments.

Will mortgage statements change?

Only the bank name will change on mortgage statements. Customers may continue to use the same payment address and account number for mortgage loan payments.

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Information

Certain statements in this communication are forward-looking statements under the United States Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 (and are made pursuant to the safe harbour provisions of such Act) and applicable Canadian securities legislation. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements with respect to the expected closing of the proposed acquisition of M&I, plans for the acquired business and the financial impact of the acquisition and are typically identified by words such as believe, expect, anticipate, intend, estimate, plan, will, should, may, could and other similar expressions.

By their nature, forward-looking statements are based on various assumptions and are subject to inherent risks and uncertainties. We caution readers of this communication not to place undue reliance on our forward-looking statements as the assumptions underlying such statements may not turn out to be correct and a number of factors could cause actual future results, conditions, actions or events to differ materially from the targets, expectations, estimates or intentions expressed in the forward-looking statements.

Such factors include, but are not limited to: the possibility that the proposed transaction does not close when expected or at all because required regulatory, shareholder or other approvals and other conditions to closing are not received or satisfied on a timely basis or at all; the terms of the proposed transaction may need to be modified to satisfy such approvals or conditions; the anticipated benefits from the proposed transaction such as it being accretive to earnings, expanding our North American presence and cost savings and synergies are not realized in the time frame anticipated or at all as a result of changes in general economic and market conditions, interest and exchange rates, monetary policy, laws and regulations (including changes to capital requirements) and their enforcement, and the degree of competition in the geographic and business areas in which M&I operates; the ability to promptly and effectively integrate the businesses of M&I and BMO; reputational risks and the reaction of M&I's customers to the transaction; diversion of management time on merger-related issues; increased exposure to exchange rate fluctuations; and those other factors set out on pages 29 and 30 of BMO's 2010 Annual Report.
